Chemical Victims:

Chemical Contamination and Its Victims David W. Schnare, Martin T. Katzman, 1989-06-12 Chemical Contamination and Its Victims is a comprehensive analytical study of three major problems surrounding chemical pollution: the medical and scientific aspects of chemical hazards, the legal responses to chemical intoxication, and the role of the insurance industry and federal mechanisms like the Superfund in matters related to chemical contamination. The contributors are united in their belief that reform is necessary in each of these areas if victims are to be appropriately compensated for the effects of increasingly frequent chemical pollution. The book begins by discussing medical and scientific advances in the field of chemical hazards. The contributors draw from the disciplines of toxicology, epidemiology, pathology, and environmental health to show the extent to which medicine is limited in dealing with chemical hazards and their human and environmental side effects. A middle section, written by legal experts, defines toxic torts, explores the courts' responses to actions brought by chemical victims, and examines the less than satisfactory attempts of Congress to compensate these victims. In the final section, the contributors look at the three different insurance plans that carry the burden of compensating victims of environmental disasters. They conclude that the present systems neither adequately protect industry nor adequately compensate victims, and that the federal government may need to play a more active role in ensuring that the polluter pays and equitable compensation is granted. Ideal as supplemental reading for courses in business law, environmental medicine, public health, and public policy, this book offers a cogent statement of the dimensions and dynamics of the chemical victims problem.

CML Army Chemical Review, 2001 , Rights Denied: Violations against ethnic and religious minorities in Iran, 2018 While the repression and human rights violations by the Iranian government are well documented, less attention is paid to the specific situation of Iran's ethnic and religious minorities. From hate speech and police intimidation to denial of fundamental rights and opportunities, Iran's minorities are routinely denied equal access to justice, education, employment, and political participation. While Iran's Constitution guarantees religious freedoms, it only extends these rights to Islam and three other recognized religions: Christianity, Judaism, and Zoroastrianism, leaving practitioners of other faiths, including Bahá'í, Sabeans, Mandaeans, and Yarsanis, with no guaranteed protections. At the extreme end, members of religious minorities, in particular Iran's sizeable Bahá'í community, have been vilified, arrested, and even executed on account of their beliefs. They are frequently punished harshly with broad charges of threatening public morality or national security, resulting in long prison terms and even death sentences. Ethnic minorities, including Arabs, Azerbaijani Turks, and Baluchis, have been treated as second-class citizens, targeted on the basis of their identity and sidelined from education, health care, and other basic services. Minority-populated regions such as Khuzestan, Kurdistan, and Sistan-Baluchestan remain underdeveloped and excluded with higher poverty levels and poorer health outcomes These inequalities have contributed to profound discontent and resentment reflected in the arrests of thousands of peaceful demonstrators in these regions Prison data shows that at least three quarters of Iran s political prisoners are from ethnic minorities Despite some limited gestures of conciliation since the election of Hassan Rouhani in 2013 hopes of a more inclusive and rights based approach to Iran s ethnic and religious minorities have yet to be realized For this to be achieved Iranian authorities will need to embark on a more comprehensive process of reform this should include equitable economic development and political representation for minorities as well as the lifting of all restrictions on their religious and cultural rights
