

KINETICS OF CHAIN REACTIONS

Chain reactions

Chemical reactions in which highly reactive short-lived species like atoms (or) free radicals are produced as intermediates which carry out the reaction at a rapid rate for a long time are called Chain reactions.

Mechanism of Chain reaction

Chain reaction occur mainly by the following three steps

1. Chain initiation step

In this step active intermediates are produced

2. Chain propagation steps

In these steps active intermediates reacts with reactant gives product and another active intermediate and this is repeated as a chain until the reactants (or) active intermediate disappear.

Inhibition of Chain Reactions V V Azatyan, E T Denisov, 2000-07-06 This text explores nonbranching reactions including in depth information on the inhibitors of free radical polymerisation and the mechanisms of antioxidants on oxidation processes Auto initiated chain reactions are also explored with detailed descriptions on the kinetics mechanisms and inhibition of the autoxidation of organic compounds A special chapter deals with the synergism of antioxidant actions The theory of chain branching reactions is investigated and a large amount of new experimental data concerning the use of chemical additives to regulate combustion processes is also presented including the mode of chain thermal explosion

Comprehensive Chemical Kinetics: Polymerisation reactions. v. 14. Degradation of polymers C. H. Bamford, Charles Frank Howlett Tipper, 1976 Kinetics of Chemical Processes Michel Boudart, 2014-05-16 Kinetics of Chemical Processes details the concepts associated with the kinetic study of the chemical processes The book is comprised of 10 chapters that present information relevant to applied research The text first covers the elementary chemical kinetics of elementary steps and then proceeds to discussing catalysis The next chapter tackles simplified kinetics of sequences at the steady state Chapter 5 deals with coupled sequences in reaction networks while Chapter 6 talks about autocatalysis and inhibition The seventh chapter describes the irreducible transport phenomena in chemical kinetics The next two chapters discuss the correlations in homogenous kinetics and heterogeneous catalysis respectively The last chapter covers the analysis of reaction networks The book will be of great use to students researchers and practitioners of scientific disciplines that deal with chemical reaction particularly chemistry and chemical engineering Physical Chemistry for the Biosciences Raymond Chang, 2005-02-11 This book is ideal for use in a one semester introductory course in physical chemistry for students of life sciences The author's aim is to emphasize the understanding of physical concepts rather than focus on precise mathematical development or on actual experimental details Subsequently only basic skills of differential and integral calculus are required for understanding the equations The end of chapter problems have both physiochemical and biological applications

An Introduction to Chemical Kinetics Michel Soustelle, 2011-07-12 This book is a progressive presentation of kinetics of the chemical reactions It provides complete coverage of the domain of chemical kinetics which is necessary for the various future users in the fields of Chemistry Physical Chemistry Materials Science Chemical Engineering Macromolecular Chemistry and Combustion It will help them to understand the most sophisticated knowledge of their future job area Over 15 chapters this book present the fundamentals of chemical kinetics its relations with reaction mechanisms and kinetic properties Two chapters are then devoted to experimental results and how to calculate the kinetic laws in both homogeneous and heterogeneous systems The following two chapters describe the main approximation modes to calculate these laws Three chapters are devoted to elementary steps with the various classes the principles used to write them and their modeling using the theory of the activated complex in gas and condensed phases Three chapters are devoted to the particular areas of chemical reactions chain reactions catalysis and the stoichiometric heterogeneous reactions Finally the non steady state processes of combustion and explosion are treated in the final chapter
