Chests And Caskets:

Chests and Caskets Peter Anker, 1975 Decorative Ironwork from the XIth to the XVIIIth Century Charles John Ffoulkes, 1913 House & Garden, 1917 The Art-journal, 1909 Vol for 1867 includes Illustrated catalogue of the Paris Universal Exhibition The Material Culture of English Rural Households c. 1250-1600 Ben Jervis, Chris Briggs, Alice Forward, Tomasz Gromelski, Matthew Tompkins, 2023-09-20 This book presents a synthesis and analysis of the possessions of non elite rural households in medieval England Drawing on the results of the Leverhulme Trust funded project Living Standards and Material Culture in English Rural Households 1300 1600 it represents the first national scale interdisciplinary analysis of non elite consumption in the later Middle Ages The research is situated within debates around rising living standards in the period following the Black Death the commercialisation of the English economy and the timing of a revolution in consumer behaviour Its novelty derives from its focus on non elite rural households Whilst there has been considerable work on the possessions of the great households and those living in larger towns researchers have struggled to identify appropriate sources for understanding the possessions of those living in the countryside even though they account for the majority of England s population at this time This book will address the gap in understanding The study combines 3 sources of data to address 2 questions what goods did medieval households own and what influenced their consumption habits The first is archaeological evidence comprising 14 706 objects recovered from archaeological excavations The book synthesises this data much of which is unpublished and therefore inaccessible to researchers The second dataset derives from lists of the seized goods of felons outlaws and suicides collated by the Escheator a royal official in the 14th and 15th centuries The work of the Escheator is not well understood but these lists relating to some of the poorest people in medieval society for whom traditional sources such as wills and probate inventories do not exist provide new insights into the living standards of rural households The lists typically detail and value the possessions of a household meaning that it is possible to present a quantitative analysis of non elite consumption for the first time The final dataset draws on equivalent lists generated by the Coroner for the 16th century An interdisciplinary approach is essential as many objects identified archaeologically do not occur in the written records and goods such as textiles do not survive in the ground Drawing these sources together therefore allows the presentation of a more comprehensive analysis of the possessions of medieval households The introduction lays out the research context in a manner accessible to historians and archaeologists who may not be familiar with work in each other s disciplines This is followed by a brief summary of the research methodology and the sources underpinning the research The next 5 chapters focus on addressing the question of what medieval households owned discussing the evidence for kitchen equipment tableware furniture clothing and personal items The following 3 chapters discuss household economy considering the evidence for the production of goods variation in consumption between town and country and variation in accordance with wealth firstly through the consideration of these themes at the national scale and secondly through a regional case study focussed on Wiltshire which has particularly rich archaeological and documentary sources The volume closes with a concluding chapter which places the research back into its wider context Directory of Forest-products Industries in the 125 Tennessee Valley Counties, 1952 Walter P. Smith,1952 Rodanum Guus Besuijen,2008 Beneath the surface of Aardenburg a small town in the south western part of the Netherlands lie the remains of a Roman settlement that is presumed to have been named Rodanum Extensive archaeological excavations from the late 1950s to the late 1980s revealed that the settlement was similar in size or even larger than the modern town Its centre was formed by a large castellum type fortification wall that enclosed several large stone buildings The settlement was connected to the sea by a natural watercourse that defined its economic and logistical importance in the region Rodanum s military function was to secure the regional coast against attacks by Germanic tribes via the North Sea which occurred around AD 175 It continued to be inhabited until the late third century or the beginning of the fourth century after which the settlement was deserted until the early Middle Ages The first part of this study provides an overview of Aardenburg during the Roman period in which its economic and military functions within the region are explored In particular the military and civilian character of the town is discussed The second part contains a study of the metal objects and aims to present significant additional information This part concludes with a critical review of the current state of research at this site Kypros, the Bible and Homer Max Ohnefalsch-Richter,1893 Egyptian furniture-making in the age of the Pharaohs Dan Svarth,1998 Everyday Political Objects Christopher Fletcher,2021-06-10 Everyday Political Objects examines a series of historical case studies across a very broad timescale using objects as a means to develop different approaches to understanding politics where both internal and external definitions of the political prove inadequate Materiality and objects have gradually made their way into the historian s toolbox in recent years but the distinctive contribution that a set of methods developed for the study of objects can make to our understanding of politics has yet to be explored This book shows how everyday objects play a certain role in politics which is specific to material things It provides case studies which re orientate the view of the political in a way that is distinct from but complementary to the study of political institutions the social history of politics and the analysis of discourse Each chapter shows in a distinctive and innovative way how historians might change their approach to politics by incorporating objects into their methodology Analysing case studies from France the Congo Burkina Faso Romania and Britain between the early Middle Ages and the present day makes this study the perfect tool for students and scholars in the disciplines of history art history political science anthropology and archaeology Chapter 7 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com/books/e/9781003147428> Forestry Publications ,1913 A list of books in the National art library illustrating furniture Victoria and Albert museum libr,1885 The Girl's Own Annual ,1887 Ancient and Modern Furniture and Woodwork John Hungerford Pollen,1876
