Chemical World:

Olfactory Cognition Gesualdo Zucco, Rachel Herz, Benoist Schaal, 2012 This book was conceived as a tribute to one of the founders of the psychological study of the sense of smell Professor Trygg Engen The book is divided into four sections The first reunites the fields of psychophysics and the perception of environmental odours and discusses the impact of odours on beliefs and expectations The second addresses cognitive processes in olfaction how odours are interpreted lexicalized associated with contexts and remembered The third focuses on the cerebral bases of olfactory awareness and the neuropsychological investigation of olfaction with special emphasis on olfactory dysfunctions and the last concerns affective and developmental processes in olfaction The aim in producing this book is that it will help promote further research in olfactory cognition and attract new inquisitive scientists to the field The volume will be a useful resource for academics students and professionals who study olfaction as well as to scientists who work in the domains of perception cognitive neuroscience and environmental psychology more broadly US Environmental History John Wills, 2012-11-28

Environmental issues in the USA are more important now than ever before The devastation inflicted by Hurricane Katrina growing evidence of global warming and a struggling national energy supply highlight the unfolding crisis Environmental fears translate into US automobile giants plying consumers with fuel efficient cars in the MPG Lounge of sales Politicians talk of energy independence and getting tough on polluters Fears gravitate around a fast approaching doomsday scenario an environmental endgame of wholesale collapse unless something is done Yet fears of doomsday are nothing new John Wills shows how the current environmental crisis is firmly rooted in the past As well as explaining how today's problems are manifestations of older systems of economics culture and politics he also argues that America has already witnessed a range of doomsday scenarios both real and imagined He identifies and explores a cast of doomsday landscapes that includes the Battle of the Wilderness in Virginia the Santa Barbara Oil Spill the Fable for Tomorrow town featured in Rachel Carson's Silent Spring 1962 and Nevada's Doom Towns 1 and 2 blown apart by atomic testing in the 1950s He reflects on contemporary ruminations over whether nature as a category endures given both the rising contamination of the US landscape and consumer proclivity for celebrating fake mementos of the outdoors such as plastic lawn flamingos and artificial plants And most significantly he poses the question of whether Americans have been inviting doomsday through their long term environmental actions The Chemical Trade Journal and Oil, Paint and Colour Review, 1894 Handbook of Natural Pesticides E. David Morgan, 2018-04-19 This volume addresses chemical interactions between insects and plants such as feeding and ovipositional attractants and deterrents It begins with a general introduction to insects in a chemical world Included is a discussion of molecular biology and genetics in insect control with respect to potentially inserting the genes for the synthesis of a protective substance into a crop plant Also covered is the detoxification of plant substances by insects This volume is especially helpful for chemists and biologists in the field of pesticide research Classified Catalogue
