

The Developmental Course of Marital Dysfunction

How do marriages become unhappy? How do marriages change? What theories and methods can best illuminate our understanding of marital development? As the first comprehensive volume to explore how marriages develop and deteriorate, The Developmental Course of Marital Dysfunction brings together leading scholars to present recent research on the longitudinal course of marriage. The chapters share a common focus on the early phases of marriage but address a diverse array of topics, including marital conflict, personality, social support, the transition to parenthood, violence, ethnicity, stress, alcohol use, commitment, and sexuality. Implications of this research for alleviating marital distress are also noted. The book concludes with six provocative analyses by prominent scholars in the areas of sociology, clinical psychology, social psychology, and developmental psychology.

By combining current theories, methods, and data, The Developmental Course of Marital Dysfunction serves as a valuable introduction to the longitudinal study of marriage.

Competence Krista Surowiec, 2002 Handbook of Family Development and Intervention William C. Nichols, 2000-02-25 Like all complex living systems a family during its life course proceeds through predictable stages of development Yet every family is different its uniqueness defined and continually redefined by an open ended array of structural biological and sociocultural variables And as with all living things a family s continued well being depends upon its ability to adapt to changes arising from both within the family system and without First postulated in the 1940s these basic ideas constitute the conceptual core of modern family development theory From them has blossomed an impressive body of knowledge about family health and illness without which much of the progress occurring in family therapy over the past half century would not have been possible This book does much to promote continued progress in the practical application of family development theory by affording family therapists an unparalleled opportunity to acquaint themselves with the most important trends in family development theory to emerge over the past decade In it you will find contributions from leading theorists researchers and clinicians arranged so as to provide a systematic treatment of the latest thinking on family development seen from both the systemic viewpoint and that of individual members of the system Comprehensive in scope this book explores the patterns processes and dynamics inherent in traditional families as well as in important structural variants such as single parent and gay and lesbian families and families with special needs and problems including divorce physical abuse and disabilities Since progress in the social sciences is as much about formulating viable new ways of seeing as it is about determining quantifiable facts the editors offer equal time to an array of influential and sometimes radically conflicting schools of thought including sociobiology social psychology constructionism multiculturalism postmodernism and feminism Mainstream family therapists
