Developmental Psychobiology George F. Michel,Celia L. Moore,1995 This text is the first to provide a coherent theoretical treatment of the flourishing new field of developmental psychobiology which has arisen in recent years on the crest of exciting advances in evolutionary biology developmental neuroscience and dynamic systems theory Michel and Moore two of the field s key pioneers and researchers integrate primary source information from research in both biological and psychological disciplines in a clear account of the frontier of biopsychological investigation and theorizing Explicitly conceptual and historical the first three chapters set the stage for a clear understanding of the field and its research with particular attention to the nature nurture question The next three chapters each provide information about a basic subfield in biology genetics evolution embryology that is particularly relevant for developmental studies of behavior These are followed by extended treatments of three spheres of inquiry behavioral embryology cognitive neuroscience animal behavior in terms of how a successful interdisciplinary approach to behavioral development might look A final chapter comments on some of the unique aspects of development study From this detailed and clearly organized text students will achieve a firm grasp of some of science s most fertile questions about the relation between evolution and development the relation between brain and cognitive development the value of a natural history approach to animal behavior and what it teaches us about humans and much more Each chapter contains material that questions the conventional wisdom held in many subdisciplines of biology and psychology Throughout the text challenges students to think creatively as it thoroughly grounds them in the field s approach to such topics as behavioral genetic analysis the concept of innateness molecular genetics and development neuroembryology behavioral embryology maturation cognition and ethology A Bradford Book

Eyeblink Classical Conditioning Volume 2 Diana S. Woodruff-Pak,Joseph E. Steinmetz,2007-05-08 Classical conditioning of the nictitating membrane NM eyeblink response in rabbits is a useful model system for the study of the neurobiology of learning and memory This paradigm that is so well described on a biological level has also been applied to studies of normal development over the life span and to instances of abnormal developmental phenomena Eyeblink conditioning has been studied from molecular and neural network perspectives and the paradigm is of demonstrated utility in elucidating mechanisms in physiology and pharmacology This model system provides a behavioral paradigm in animals that has a close analog in human behavior Perspectives of recent developments in human eyeblink classical conditioning research are presented in the companion volume to this book

Eyeblink Classical Conditioning Applications in Humans

Books in Print ,1994 Encyclopedia of Human Biology ,1991 Bibliography of Agriculture ,1991-11 The Psychology of Religious Adjustment Edmund Smith Conklin,1929 I have written this book with the profound conviction that it is profitable to keep the field of psychology distinct from theology and the philosophy of religion While I am not ignorant of theology and the philosophy of religion I have studiously sought to keep such knowledge as I have of those subjects entirely in the background The book is written as a study of certain forms of human behavior and for me a study of behavior must include the conscious accompaniments It should not however be looked upon as anything more than a study of behavior There is in it no intentional brief for any form of religious faith nor for any form of anti religious doctrine There is no reason of course why the material here presented should not be utilized by theologians and philosophers of religion for its larger significances if they find anything which seems of possible service to them But my aim has been the more humble one of seeking merely to bring together facts and psychological interpretations of religious conduct and to consider them in the light of contemporary psychological thought I am confident that this procedure has greatly clarified my own thinking on these subjects I hope it may do as much for others Preface PsycINFO Database Record c 2010 APA all rights reserved
