Green Wealth Kevin F. Noon,Judith A. Ward,2021-07-22 Only a fraction of this country s land can be farmed or developed What happens to the land that is not economically viable Until a few years ago the value of such property would have remained flat with little prospect of appreciating Today however the Federal government has created a huge incentive to turn this land into moneymaking assets Green Wealth explains how newly enacted laws can benefit those who invest in environmentally reconstituted land development The Feds along with many state governments now allow for the creation of individual environmental banks which are established by converting unproductive property into new wetlands endangered species reserves water storage reservoirs and a host of other types of environmentally protected land Credits are then issued to the landowners credits that can be sold to developers seeking to build on previously protected properties As building continues in one place new environmentally sound acreage is created in another Now you can perform an environmentally responsible service and make a highly profitable investment at the same time Financial Inclusion at the Bottom of the Pyramid Carol Realini,Karl Mehta,2015-07-15 As incredible as it may seem in this hyper connected technologically advanced era half the planet s population exist as Financial nomads those who nourish and shelter themselves without using traditional banking services While the wealthy live at the top of a metaphorical pyramid taking financial security and banking services for granted there are billions of people who struggle at the pyramid s base in an exhausting state of financial exclusion and insecurity Times are changing rapidly but despite global uncertainty technology has the capacity to reach and equip people in all walks of life Advances in communications have reconfigured the ease with which we interact with our money and these advances can provide innovative financial services to the unbanked and underserved around the world
