Bayonets to Lhasa Peter Fleming,2012-04-27 The British invasion of Tibet in 1904 is one of the strangest events in British imperial history Conceived by Lord Curzon as a strategic move in the Great Game that colossal struggle between imperial Britain and Tsarist Russia for influence in Central Asia the incursion was in fact ill conceived and inspired by only the weakest of motivations Led by the soldier explorer and mystic Francis Younghusband the mission doomed from the very beginning became caught in political cross fire and the distant and destructive machinations of China and Britain and ended in ignominy and disappointment for this idealistic adventurer Peter Fleming s gripping portrayal of this curious episode and its charismatic protagonists brilliantly illuminates what is now seen as a key moment in the Great Game the repercussions of which continue to be felt throughout the region

Loneliness and Time Mark Cocker,1992 Refreshing original and eminently readable The Literary Review Loneliness and Time is a pioneering study of travel writing as a literary form and of travel as a cultural phenomenon Mark Cocker offers a fertile mixture of biography history and literary criticism in his portraits of some of the most prominent twentieth century British explorer writers including Wilfred Thesiger Laurens van der Post Gavin Maxwell and Lawrence Durrell and of the places Greece Tibet that obsessed them In scrutinizing the deep drives that impelled these men to the outer reaches Cocker makes clear the immensely powerful idea of the journey as quest as pilgrimage and how it has come to carry mythological and spiritual import In each portrait the journey s meaning is unearthed layer by layer and we see not only how it operates in the lives of the travelers themselves but its importance to the modern industrial and largely secular societies from which these figures emerge Cocker shows how foreign landscapes and their inhabitants have been used by travel writers as a means to self definition as well as a source of image fantasy even self image Loneliness and Time illuminates the appeal of travel the desire to explore the unfamiliar and the strange that captivates us all
