Angling Sketches Andrew Lang, 1895 Angling Sketches Andrew Lang, 2020-03-28 These papers do not boast of great sport They are truthful not like the tales some fishers tell They should appeal to many sympathies There is no false modesty in the confidence with which I esteem myself a duffer at fishing Some men are born duffers others unlike persons of genius become so by an infinite capacity for not taking pains Others again among whom I would rank myself combine both these elements of incompetence Nature that made me enthusiastically fond of fishing gave me thumbs for fingers short sighted eyes indolence carelessness and a temper which usually sweet and angelic is goaded to madness by the laws of matter and of gravitation For example when another man is caught up in a branch he disengages his fly I jerk at it till something breaks As for carelessness in boyhood I fished by preference with doubtful gut and knots ill tied it made the risk greater and increased the excitement if one did hook a trout I can't keep a fly book I stuff the flies into my pockets at random or stick them into the leaves of a novel or bestow them in the lining of my hat or the case of my rods Never till 1890 in all my days did I possess a landing net If I can drag a fish up a bank or over the gravel well if not he goes on his way rejoicing On the Test I thought it seemly to carry a landing net It had a hinge and doubled up I put the handle through a button hole of my coat I saw a big fish rising I put a dry fly over him the idiot took it Up stream he ran then down stream then he yielded to the rod and came near me I tried to unship my landing net from my button hole Vain labour I twisted and turned the handle it would not budge Finally I stooped and attempted to ladle the trout out with the short net but he broke the gut and went off A landing net is a tedious thing to carry so is a creel and a creel is to me a superfluity There is never anything to put in it If I do catch a trout I lay him under a big stone cover him with leaves and never find him again I often break my top joint so as I never carry string I splice it with a bit of the line which I bite off for I really cannot be troubled with scissors and I always lose my knife When a phantom minnow sticks in my clothes I snap the gut off and put on another so that when I reach home I look as if a shoal of fierce minnows had attacked me and hung on like leeches When a boy I was once or twice a bait fisher but I never carried worms in box or bag I found them under big stones or in the fields wherever I had the luck I never tie nor otherwise fasten the joints of my rod they often slip out of the sockets and splash into the water Mr Hardy however has invented a joint fastening which never slips On the other hand by letting the joint rust you may find it difficult to take down your rod When I see a trout rising I always cast so as to get hung up and I frighten him as I disengage my hook I invariably fall in and get half drowned when I wade there being an insufficiency of nails in the soles of my brogues My waders let in water too and when I go out to fish I usually leave either my reel or my flies or my rod at home Perhaps no other man s average of lost flies in proportion to taken trout was ever so great as mine I lose plenty by striking furiously

Angling Sketches Andrew Lang,2018-02-04 Excerpt Well it is stronger than myself the love of fishing perhaps it is an inherited instinct without the inherited power I may have had a fishing ancestor who bequeathed to me the passion without the art My vocation is fixed and I have fished to little purpose all my days Not for salmon an almost fabulous and yet a stupid fish which must be moved with a rod like a weaver s beam The trout is more delicate and dainty not the sea trout which any man woman or child can capture but the yellow trout in clear water We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience

Historical Sketches of the Angling Literature of All Nations Robert Blakey,1856 By Loch and Stream R. C. Bridgett,2015-06-24 Excerpt from By Loch and Stream Angling Sketches I have spent many days by Loch and Stream every one of them a happy memory distinguished in some manner though not necessarily by a heavy creel and I have set myself the pleasant task of describing these in the hope that other anglers will be reminded of similar days in their experience Some little incident noted will perhaps awake the memory of some almost forgotten day and whenever such activity commences it may continue and produce contentment throughout a weary close season I venture to give some advice as to methods and lures not deductions from haphazard or insufficient experiments but conclusions reached after many years on many waters tested again and again until doubt is removed I indicate many localities in Scotland where satisfactory sport may be expected but it will be observed that many rivers and lochs of the highest angling value are not mentioned That of course is inevitable I should be most unhappy if there were left no unfamiliar waters to fish but as long as I may I shall seek them out reduce their number all I can and endeavour to make their fame more widely known The expert may find some things which do not receive his approval I hope so About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst
