The Contamination of the Earth Francois Jarrige, Thomas Le Roux, 2020-07-21 The trajectories of pollution in global capitalism from the toxic waste of early tanneries to the poisonous effects of pesticides in the twentieth century Through the centuries the march of economic progress has been accompanied by the spread of industrial pollution As our capacities for production and our aptitude for consumption have increased so have their byproducts chemical contamination from fertilizers and pesticides diesel emissions

oil spills a vast plastic continent found floating in the ocean The Contamination of the Earth offers a social and political history of industrial pollution mapping its trajectories over three centuries from the toxic wastes of early tanneries to the fossil fuel energy regime of the twentieth century The authors describe how from 1750 onward in contrast to the early modern period polluted water and air came to be seen as inevitable side effects of industrialization which was universally regarded as beneficial By the nineteenth century pollutants became constituent elements of modernity The authors trace the evolution of these various pollutions and describe the ways in which they were simultaneously denounced and permitted The twentieth century saw new and massive scales of pollution chemicals that resisted biodegradation including napalm and other defoliants used as weapons of war the ascendancy of oil and a lifestyle defined by consumption In the 1970s pollution became a political issue but efforts local national and global to regulate it often fell short Viewing the history of pollution through a political lens the authors also offer lessons for the future of the industrial world
