Climate Justice Now Rebecca Marwege,Nikhari Gaikwad,Joerg Schaefer,2026-03-10 Climate change is not only an environmental crisis but also a catalyst for worsening socioeconomic inequalities leading to widespread calls for climate justice Even though this term has become increasingly common there remains no universally accepted definition This challenge is compounded by the limitations of traditional scholarly frameworks which struggle to encompass the dynamic and pervasive impact of the climate crisis across global national and local levels The scope of the crisis requires ethical social and political considerations alongside scientific and environmental insights in order to shape equitable responses by states and societies This multidisciplinary book offers a comprehensive exploration of debates on climate justice across the natural sciences social sciences and humanities Synthesizing these divergent approaches it develops a new conceptual framework that transcends disciplinary divides providing a deeper and richer understanding of climate justice Contributors make an urgent case that climate justice must be centered within and across disciplines creating a roadmap for multidisciplinary research and pedagogy on the climate crisis Featuring a wide range of voices and actionable recommendations this timely book illuminates how scholarship on climate change can become a call to action Circulation Weather types as a tool in atmospheric, climate and environmental research Alexandre M. Ramos,David Barriopedro,Emanuel Dutra,2015-09-11

Classifications of circulation weather systems have a long history in meteorology and climatology Starting with manual classifications over specific regions of the globe these tools generally called catalogs of synoptic types were restricted mainly to weather forecasting and historical climate variability studies In the last decades the advance of computing resources and the availability of datasets have fostered the development of fast and objective methods that process large amount of data In recent years numerous methods of circulation type classification have been designed showing their usefulness on a wide range of applications in scientific domains related to weather climate and environment This Research Topic highlights methodological advances in circulation weather types and also their applications to different research areas The articles included in this research topic show that circulation weather types can be used not only in Europe where they have been always more frequent but also applied to other regions of the world The Atlas of Water Maggie Black,2016-09 Water may soon be one of our most valuable commodities The growing demands made on a finite resource by an increasing number of people adopting urban lifestyles and western diets coupled with a changing and less predictable climate are putting pressure on the planet s freshwater supply as never before By 2025 four billion people may be living in conditions of water stress And even where water is plentiful the poor are unlikely to have ready access to a safe cheap supply The new edition of this timely atlas analyzes the latest thinking and emerging issues Completely updated it maps the competing claims on limited water resources made by farmers industrialists and householders and investigates the nature of the resource its uses and abuses as well as the vexed question of how it can be managed equitably Page 4 of the cover Planning and decision-making in human-wildlife conflict and coexistence Silvio Marchini,Alexandra Zimmermann,Katia Maria P.
