Altdorfer

Beginnings Of Netherlandish Canvas Painting 1400 153:

The Beginnings of Netherlandish Canvas Painting; 1400-1530; ND1570 D. Wolfthal,1989      The Beginnings of Netherlandish Canvas Painting: 1400-1530 Diane Wolfthal,1989      Early Netherlandish Painting (1400-1500) Hélène Mund,Cyriel Stroo,1998      Albrecht Dürer and the Venetian Renaissance Katherine Crawford Luber,Albrecht Dürer,2005-05-30 Albrecht Dürer and the Venetian Renaissance examines twenty five paintings by the German artist in an effort to reevaluate his relationship to contemporary Italian art and his status as a painter Providing a technical analysis of these works Katherine Crawford Luber explains how Dürer appropriated Venetian techniques and suggests that the artist was engaged in the exploration of an atmospheric coloristic perspective Luber also demonstrates how the Venetian alternative to scientific perspective was integrated not only in Dürer's late paintings but also in his later graphic oeuvre which necessitates a reassessment of the critical partition of his painted and graphic work Emphasizing Dürer's careful working methods Luber argues that technique is an interpretable and critically important aspect of art works that should be integrated into mainstream art historical studies      With and Without the Medici Eckart Marchand,Alison Wright,1998 Medici dominance in the political and cultural life of Italy and of Florence in particular has been well explored Previous patronage studies have shown how the Medici invested great wealth in both private and public art and how the skills of Florentine artists and their products were an important part of the self representation of Florence and the Medici in Italy and abroad The six studies in this volume investigate the evidence for patronal interests expressed in a variety of commissions by different social groups and consider how far Medici activity as patrons can be considered paradigmatic In examining the language in which the work was commissioned and received the scholars explore the way the work of art reflects the patron's needs interests or allegiance New evidence is presented of aspects of the relationship between the patron and artists Topics covered include commissions for the religious and secular decoration of Florentine villas the activities and aspirations of Florentine nuns the early practice of collecting and the artist's response to the patron's needs through the formal qualities of the works of art The volume is introduced by Eckart Marchand and Alison Wright who provide an invaluable historical overview of the present state of studies in Italian and especially Tuscan Renaissance art patronage      10th Triennial Meeting, Washington, DC, USA, 22-27 August 1993 ICOM Committee for Conservation. Meeting,Janet Bridgland,1993 The tenth meeting took place in Washington DC USA in August 1993 The Preprints provide both an important record of the meeting and include a wide range of papers on the many different aspects of conservation      Albrecht Altdorfer and the Origins of Landscape Christopher S. Wood,Albrecht Altdorfer,1993-12 Altdorfer's landscapes offer a densely textured interpretation of that quintessentially German place the forest interior As Wood explains however these scenes far from doctrinally innocent the forest that Altdorfer painted drew and etched is both a refuge from Christian rites and a mythical setting of idolatry In producing his landscapes Altdorfer flaunted and exaggerated the formal principles of a regional pictorial tradition Wood demonstrates that the abrasive surface effects incessant ornamental movement and structural impenetrability of these pictures make them the incunabula of a self resistance to literal readings Altdorfer s landscapes also resemble the exactly contemporary pastorals and allegories of Giovanni Bellini Lorenzo Lotto and Giorgione Because of Altdorfer s influence on the next generation of German and Netherlandish artists his work forms a crucial link between Northern religious imagery and the modern development of landscape of a genre Rogier Van Der Weyden, St. Luke Drawing the Virgin Museum of Fine Arts, Boston,1997 Selected essays in context on Rogier van der Weyden s St Luke Drawing the Virgin Artibus Et Historiae ,1998 The Flemish Primitives: Masters with provisional names Pascale Syfer-d'Olne,Musées royaux des beaux-arts de Belgique,Anne Dubois,2006 The fourth volume examines all the works attributed to masters with provisional names from the 1470s to the first half of the 16th century Master of the Joseph Sequence Master of the Magdalen Legend Master of the Orsoy Altarpiece Master of the Saint Barbara Legend Master of the Saint Catherine Legend Master of the Saint Lucy Legend Master of the Saint Ursula Legend Master of the View of Saint Gudule Master of 1473 It was towards 1900 that anonymous works were first grouped on the basis of stylistic affinities around certain paintings presenting particular characteristics Each group is attributed to an anonymous master named after the painting the eponymous work which forms the basis for this group These ensembles serve to give direction to the work of art historians in the hope of identifying these anonymous painters at a later date Some of these groups to which new works have been added over past decades appear fairly heterogeneous and merit critical reexamination in the light of modern analysis methods Like the three previous volumes it is published in English and abundantly illustrated with colour photographs of the investigated paintings detail photographs and comparative material Each of the nineteen paintings has been submitted to exhaustive and detailed examination following a scientific research method which has been fully established over the years This includes on the one hand examination of the supports and the original frames dendrochronological analysis infrared reflectography stereomicroscopic observation radiographic analysis ultraviolet fluorescence imaging and where possible examination of paint samples and on the other hand historical iconographic and stylistic analysis dating attribution and bibliography Information is drawn from documents in the museum s archives and supplemented with material held at the Royal Institute for the Study and Conservation of Belgium s Artistic Heritage IRPA KIK and the Centre for the Study of Fifteenth Century Painting in the Southern Netherlands and the Principality of Liege Each group of paintings attributed to a master with a provisional name is introduced with a short status quaestionis evoking the origins of the grouping and the principal publications relating to it In their notices on the individual paintings the authors have based their research on comparing them as closely as possible with the works around which each ensemble is grouped Certain paintings in the Royal Museums of Fine Arts of Belgium are themselves eponymous works In these cases the authors have made every effort to document these reference works as thoroughly as possible Perfection Lorenzo Pericolo,Elisabeth Oy-Marra,2019 This book aims to
