

GUIDANCE FOR INVESTIGATORS
Social Science/Behavioral/Educational Research Protocol

A research protocol or proposal describes planned research activities. It is the plan submitted to an Institutional Review Board (IRB) for review and may be submitted to a sponsor for research support/funding. The research plan includes a description of the research design or methodology, how prospective research participants are chosen, a description of what will happen during the study and what data analysis will be used on the data collected.

The research plan may sometimes be a simple and brief explanation, particularly when describing an exempt, low risk, or a simple project. If the project is a student project there may be departmental proposal requirements and with slight alterations, that proposal can serve both purposes.

Basically, the protocol should describe the common question questions: Who, What, When, Where, How, and Why.

All items with an asterisk () are essential elements and must be addressed. If you use this document for your research protocol, please delete the above two paragraphs and other information that is not relevant to your project BEFORE you submit it to the IRB.*
