childhood setting Psychology of Infancy and Early Childhood Ada Hart Arlitt,1928 Anger, Aggression, and Interventions for Interpersonal Violence Timothy A. Cavell, Kenya T. Malcolm,2023-05-31 Interpersonal violence has many faces and many names domestic violence child abuse school bullying Anger Aggression and Interventions for Interpersonal Violence reveals what clinical scientists know and what mental health practitioners can do about interpersonal violence To advance the way professionals conceptualize interventions for violent clients contributors consider the complex relation between anger and aggression and discuss how that relation affects treating various forms of interpersonal violence Should treatment focus on anger on aggression or on both Does that decision depend on the form of interpersonal violence or does the anger aggression relation suggest a core set of intervention principles and strategies Readers are provided up to date detailed discussions as well as focused commentaries all written by internationally known researchers This volume will serve as a comprehensive guide for researchers and practitioners alike Television and the Aggressive Child L. Rowell Huesmann, Leonard D. Eron,2013-06-19 The research presented in this book originally published in 1986 looks to pinpoint the psychological processes involved in the media violence aggression relation Expanding on earlier studies the compilation of essays here delves deeply into aggression study and compares results about media influence across 5 countries Cultural norms and programming differences are investigated as well as age and gender and other factors What is offered overall is a psychological model in which TV violence is both a precursor and a consequence of aggression Understanding and Treating the Aggression of Children David A. Crenshaw, John B. Mordock,2007-09 Understanding and Treating the Aggression of Children Fawns in Gorilla Suits provides a thorough review of the theoretical and research basis of the techniques and interventions in the treatment of aggressive and sometimes violent children This is not a dry and sterile academic review but rather one that comes from work directly in the therapy room with thousands of hurting and in many cases traumatized children One cannot read this book without being deeply moved and touched by the pain of these children and yet also be buoyed by their courage and willingness to persevere against formidable barriers The metaphor of the fawn in a gorilla suit is introduced followed by chapters covering developmental failures and invisible wounds profound and unacknowledged losses the implication of new findings from neuroscience psychodynamics of aggressive children risk factors when treating the traumatized child special considerations when treating children in foster care strengthening relationships with parents and helping them be more effective enhancing relationships with direct care and instructional staff developing mature defenses and coping skills creating a therapeutic milieu for traumatized children and fostering hope and resilience Working with Parents of Aggressive Children Timothy A. Cavell, Lauren B. Quetsch,2023 This second edition of Working With Parents of Aggressive Children features new scholarship in children s emotional socialization and childhood aggression and offers parenting interventions developed through the lens of equity diversity and inclusion Healthy parent child relationships reflect parents capacity to accept contain and lead their children and under girding healthy parent child relationships are parents goals parents health and family structure This comprehensive guide shows mental health providers how to discuss setting reasonable expectations and goals that are attainable through therapy promoting parent self care and promoting family structure Instead of a one size fits all approach the authors explain how clinicians can tailor their work to the unique needs of each family They offer compelling realistic examples that accurately reflect the range of diversity that exists among parents and families and examine the opportunities and challenges that can arise when working with families from diverse backgrounds
