Jaan Valsiner, 2017-12-02 This book explores the development of ideas in psychology's past It is the initial volume in a series intended to shape such ideas into a valuable resource for the discipline's future. Scientists in general are known to ignore their own history, considering it to be a graveyard of failures. In Thinking in Psychological Science, selected ideas of key figures in the cognitive, comparative, and developmental sides of psychology—Karl Duncker, Karl Bihler, Tamara Dembo, Zing Young Kuo, C. Lloyd Morgan, Alexander Chamberlain, and Arnold Gesell—are traced, and the social contexts of their ideas are given a collective analysis focusing on the potential of these ideas for the present state of psychology. Representing the scientist as hero has become a necessary component when applying for research monies from governmentally controlled funding agencies. Yet the reality is just the opposite: Science is not just the product of heroes; it is the product of many individuals who often search for solutions to basic problems throughout their lifetimes, while only a few arrive at breakthroughs. Still, familiarity with the flow of thought in the efforts to solve the basic problems of humankind is necessary for any understanding of creativity. This book analyzes the processes involved in the search for solutions to major theoretical problems of development: Kuo, Gesell, action and cognition; Bihler, Dembo, and methodology; Morgan. Ultimately, this is an exciting volume that reveals real science in the making. Thinking in Psychological Science will be of interest to students of the social sciences and intellectual history. It is ideal for graduate and upper-level undergraduate courses in psychology, the sociology of science, and cognitive science.

Soldiers and Scholars Carol Reardon, 1990. The use and abuse of military history is the theme of this book. The author scrutinizes the army's first systematic attempt to use military history to educate its future leaders and traces the army's struggle from the end of the Civil War to claim intellectual authority over the study of war.

8 Keys of Self-leadership Dario Nardi, 2005. Unfortunately, he had nothing to say about which step was the right one. Your journey to be the leader you want to be begins here. Lead 4 Success sets your development as a leader on the right track, focusing on the four fundamental skills that fuel the thoughts and drive the actions of leaders who make a difference: SELF AWARENESS, LEARNING AGILITY, COMMUNICATION, and INFLUENCE. Each of those essential skills is comprised of other skills. You will learn about all of them in Lead 4 Success. To ensure the success of your leadership journey, use this book as a guide.
