Robert K. Wright, John T. Greenwood

Airborne Forces:

Airborne E. M. Flanagan, 2003 The United States Army's experiment with airborne forces started at Fort Benning Georgia in early 1940 with a single platoon of paratroopers From this tiny seed grew the mighty American airborne legion that spearheaded America's attack against Nazi Germany in Sicily and Normandy Ultimately this branch included an airborne corps headquarters five full airborne divisions and several independent battalions and regiments On the nights of June 5 and 6 1944 the parachutes and gliders of six regiments of American airborne infantry filled the dark sky over Normandy Paratroopers and glidermen of the 101st Airborne Division Screaming Eagles were literally dropping into battle for the first time harbingers of the vast Allied D day armada Moments later they were joined by the veteran All Americans of the 82d Airborne Division who had first jumped into combat almost a year earlier in Sicily For the American airborne troopers the road to victory in Europe led through the ill conceived Arnhem campaign and on to the Bulge where the American paratroopers saved the day for the Allies The 17th Airborne Division bounced the Rhine in the last airborne operation in Europe and fought across Germany until VE Day with their band of brothers In the Pacific the Angels of the 11th Airborne Division saw hard combat in the Philippines The independent 503d Regimental Combat Team fulfilled General MacArthur's promise to return when it daringly parachuted onto the small area known as Topsy on the rocky fortress island of Corregidor Following World War II the airborne fought with distinction in Korea Vietnam and the Gulf War Along the way American paratroopers have also given yeoman service on smaller battlefields such as the Dominican Republic Grenada and Panama Written by a former paratrooper Airborne is the definitive combat history of these elite forces Out of the Blue James Alvin Huston, 1972 Beginning with a case study of the greatest airborne operation of the war the 1944 invasion of Holland Huston examines the inception organization training equipment strategies Allied cooperation and overall effectiveness of the airborne in the total war effort Operations in North Africa Sicily Italy Southern France the Pacific and the Far East are discussed Assault from the Sky John S. Weeks, 1988 United States Airborne Forces Barry Gregory, 1990

Airborne Forces at War Robert K. Wright, John T. Greenwood, 2007 This handsome large format book takes the reader on an illustrated tour of the U S Army's hard hitting airborne forces from the original Parachute Test Platoon of 1940 to the multiple global commitment of the twenty first century Featuring more than 150 photographs some rare or seldom seen and many in color the work highlights the extraordinary history of the airborne units as they added new dimensions to national power and military operations arriving from the sky by parachute and aircraft and compressing time by their swift deployment and flight to objectives thousands of miles distant Airborne operations of World War II in the Mediterranean Europe and the Pacific begin an inspiring story that leads through Korea Vietnam and into the twenty first century The operations take a prominent place in the story along with the paratroopers who received the nation's highest award for heroism the Medal of Honor The esprit de corps of the airborne volunteers and their sacrifices in peace and war are consistent themes throughout the book Whether operating as small groups of paratroopers scattered about the countryside or as powerful parachute infantry regiments brigades or divisions the airborne spirit is always evident Coauthors John Greenwood and Robert K Wright highlight key leaders and crucial battles spanning more than six decades to help tell this exciting story Through skillful integration of photographs and text they show how lessons learned in combat led to improved doctrine and the development of equipment that enhanced the mobility and striking power of these versatile units This book is published in cooperation with the Association of the United States Army US Airborne Divisions in the ETO 1944-45 Steven J. Zaloga,2013-01-20 The delivery of entire divisions to battlefields behind enemy lines by parachute and glider was a unique feature of World War II By the end of the war the US Army deployed the largest airborne force in the world created in only three years and boasting such impressive units as the 82nd All American and 101st Screaming Eagles This book details the organization and operation history of these units throughout the war in Northwest Europe from 1944 to 1945 covering the desperate night drops over Normandy in support of the D Day invasions through the capture of Nijmegen during Operation Market Garden to Operation Varsity the last great airborne operation of the war to secure the crossing of the Rhine US Airborne Units in the Mediterranean Theater 1942-44 Gordon L. Rottman,2013-07-20 The first of three to examine the genesis organization and operational deployment of the US airborne divisions in World War II this book discusses early units detailing how and why they were formed Paratroopers Tim Ripley,2015-07-15 There are many military careers available to people today One of the most popular is a paratrooper Paratroopers go behind enemy lines to get information This book details the paratrooper s unique history what it s like to be a paratrooper and what skills you need to become one Airborne Tim Moreman,Carl Smith,Gordon L. Rottman,Bruce Quarrie,Peter Antill,2007-07-24 Airborne warfare reached its peak during World War II the only war in which the potential gains of using airborne tactics ever justified the great costs both material and human The revolutionary developments in tactics and equipment meant that whole divisions could now be inserted behind enemy lines to initiate surprise attacks However the risks taken by these brave soldiers both Allied and Axis cannot be overstated with horrific losses suffered by both sides This book gives an overview of airborne warfare during World War II looking not at the German American and British paratroopers involved in the war covering their recruitment training tactics and battle conduct and the battles they fought Covering Operation Mercury the German assault on the island of Crete in 1941 and the first strategic use of airborne forces in history the tragic British attack on Arnhem in 1944 and the American airborne assault near Utah Beach on D Day this book traces the evolution of airborne warfare throughout the war and gives an insight into the experiences of the brave men who dropped into battle A Photographic History of Airborne Warfare, 1939-1945 Simon Forty,Jonathan Forty,2022-01-12 On 10 May 1940 German Fallschirmj ger stormed the Dutch fort of Eben Emael south of Maastricht The brilliantly executed operation was the first signal success by airborne troops in the Second World War and it made the military world sit up and take notice Improved parachutes and the creation of gliders that could carry troops meant that assault forces could be dropped or landed behind enemy lines. This was a significant new tactic which had a dramatic impact on several of the key campaigns and it is the subject of Simon and Jonathan Forty's in depth highly illustrated history. They tell the story of the development of airborne forces how they were trained and equipped and how they were landed and put into action in every theatre of the global conflict. The results were mixed. German airborne forces were victorious on Crete but the cost was so great that Hitler vowed never to use them in the same way again. The Allies saw things differently. After Crete they built up elite units who would play important roles in later battles in Normandy for example where the British 6th Airborne Division took vital bridges prior to the D Day landings. These are just two examples of the many similar operations on the Western and Eastern Fronts and in the Pacific which are covered in this wide ranging book. It offers the reader a fascinating insight into airborne warfare over seventy years ago.

Infantry, 1985. The First Men In Ed Ruggero, 2007-05-29. Of the nearly 15 000 Allied paratroopers dropped into France on D 14 two weeks before D Day only one regiment the 3 000 men of the 505 Parachute Infantry had been tested in battle and so they were given the toughest mission. For a few critical days while the fate of occupied Europe hung in the balance these troopers held their ground against savage assaults. In doing so they changed the course of World War II. Within hours of landing in Normandy the paratroopers of the 505 Parachute Infantry Regiment had gathered in the darkened fields outside Ste Mere Eglise and moved rapidly to the edge of town. A French civilian pointed out the German positions and in a lightning attack the GI's liberated the first town in Europe planting the United States flag on top of city hall. Shortly after daylight as reports streamed in Allied commanders were shocked to learn that the 505 was the only one of six U S parachute regiments to hit its mark. Because Ste Mere Eglise was the gateway to Utah Beach the regiment now fighting virtually alone hastily dug in to await the German counterattacks that were sure to follow. Colonel Bill Ekman and his men held critical ground half of the American invasion force was to pass through this area and that would only happen if the 505 held Ste Mere Eglise. It was an almost unimaginable challenge at ten that morning the German attacks began and by early afternoon enemy armored columns were slamming GI lines from three directions in an attempt to reach the vulnerable invasion beaches. But despite heavy losses the 505 was still in control of Ste Mere Eglise on June 8 when they were relieved by units that came across the beach. When their unseasoned replacements faltered U S commanders called on the exhausted paratroopers to stay in the fight and lead the series of ground assaults that would secure the invasion. A single unit a relative handful of men had helped turn the course of one of the most important battles of the war.

The Airborne Mafia Robert F. Williams, 2025-03-15. The Airborne Mafia explores how a small group of World War II airborne officers took control of the US Army after World War II. This powerful cadre cemented a unique airborne culture.

that had an unprecedented impact on the Cold War US Army and beyond Robert F Williams reveals the trials and tribulations this group of officers faced in order to bring about their vision He spotlights the relationship between organizational culture operational behavior and institutional change in the United States Army during the Cold War showing that as airborne officers ascended to the highest ranks of the army they transmitted their culture throughout their service in four major ways civil military relations preparation for potential atomic combat helicopter airmobility and strategic response forces Experiences of training and commanding airborne divisions in World War II led these men to hold sway in army doctrine by the mid 1950s Dominating institutional thought and imparting their values beliefs and norms throughout the service they enjoyed a special privilege within the group culture Williams demonstrates this impact privilege and power by focusing on the paratrooper triumvirate of Matthew Ridgway Maxwell Taylor and James Gavin and the lasting impression they made on how the US Army fought The Airborne Mafia illuminates the power subcultures can have in changing their parent cultures over time particularly one as set in its ways and as large as the US Army With a deft touch deep research and an unwavering eye for the human stories behind organizational change Williams helps explain the existence and importance of the paratrooper mystique that remains within the military still today Airborne Warfare James Maurice Gavin,2020-04-13 To Airborne Warfare General James Maurice Gavin,2014-08-15 To every member of the 82nd Airborne Division who dropped as part of the American paratroop landings during World War Two they breathed a little easier knowing their commander Jumpin Jim Gavin would be dropping with them General Gavin would drop into the fierce fighting along with his men in Sicily Normandy on D Day and during the abortive attempt to capture the Rhine bridges during Operation Market Garden He shared the risks of all his men dropping into enemy territory often only armed with his GI issue rifle and accompanied by a handful of men leading from the front his memoirs are an outstanding addition to the literature of the Airborne in World War II General Gavin had been at the forefront advancing the use of airborne troops in the US army writing the first field manual for their combat use In this volume of memoirs General Gavin recounts his many experiences in the Airborne and also writes of the need and use of airborne troops in the future US Airborne Tanks, 1939-1945 Charles C. Roberts,2021-03-23

This book explores the design and deployment of American airborne tanks from the earliest concepts to their actual use From their first introduction at the Battle of the Somme in the First World War tanks proved to be one of the most important military developments in the history of warfare Such was their influence on the battlefield both as infantry support and as an armored spearhead their presence could determine the outcome of any battle Another significant development during the 1930s was that of airborne forces with a number of countries experimenting with air dropped troops Such a concept offered the possibility of inserting soldiers behind the front lines to sow fear and confusion in the enemy s rear However such troops parachuting from aircraft could only be lightly armed thus limiting their effectiveness It is understandable therefore that much thought was given to the practicalities of airlifting tanks that could be dropped or deposited alongside paratroopers Tanks though are heavy cumbersome vehicles and before there could be any thought of carrying them by air much lighter models would have to be produced Charles Roberts fascinating book opens with an investigation into the efforts in the 1930s by Britain the Soviet Union and the USA into the development of or adaptation of light tanks for airborne operations It was inevitably the start of the Second World War which accelerated efforts to produce an airborne tank and the means of delivery The use of conventional powered aircraft to carry the tanks limited their use to existing airfields which negated their employment with airborne troops landing in the open countryside Another method of delivery had to be found and this took the form of the glider which could be landed in a field behind enemy lines The combination of light tank and glider made the aim of airborne forces being supported by armor a realistic proposition and as a result the 28th Airborne Tank Battalion was born This detailed and comprehensive study deals with every aspect of design and deployment of American airborne tanks from the earliest concepts to their actual use by British units on D Day and during Operation Varsity the Rhine crossing
