Colorado Duane A. Smith, Kate Shuchter, 1999 As Abraham Lincoln observed a year after Colorado gained territorial status Fellow citizens we cannot escape history In COLORADO OUR COLORFUL State a fourth grade textbook perfectly adaptable for people of all ages many of these people take a bow upon the stage Supplemented by drawings maps and photographs the text transports young and older readers from the appearance of the dinosaurs to the coming of the first hunters and gatherers and on to the late twentieth century The builders of Mesa Verde and the Spanish explorers cross the pages So too do the Utes railroad builders ranchers miners and farmers who each in their own way left a heritage The women who fought to gain the vote saved Mesa Verde National Park homesteaded and tamed the frontier take their place as well Finally the great changes of the twentieth century and the people who helped bring them about come into focus as the book closes in on the present

Colorado Duane SMITH, Professor Duane A Smith, Kate Shuchter, 1999-08 This book is designed to be more like a book of stories than a textbook Therefore we have foregone the tradition of placing questions and activity suggestions with the text itself What you will find here are some basic questions you may want to use to reinforce and check on your students understanding of what they are reading They are by no means meant to be absolutely comprehensive in terms of everything mentioned in the text Please use them as you see fit adding to or subtracting from them in order to suit the way you are using the text and emphasising particular information and concepts The answers provided are not necessarily the only correct ones either but they do serve as guidelines In some cases when the questions asks for an opinion or discussion no answer is given Student worksheets with the chapter questions have been included at the end of this supplement for your convenience Transportation Planning and Priorities for the Seventies United States.
