Kirin,Rand Corporation,1992 This study was requested by the Center for Army Lessons Learned CALL whose data collection process at the Combat Training Centers CTCs indicated that mortar platoons in both light and heavy battalions in the United States and Europe were not making an effective contribution to battle outcomes Whereas their data contained anecdotal points and summary statements of mortar problems CALL wished for a more systematic investigation of the mortar problem so it could recommend remedial actions The objectives of this work were to answer four questions Is it true that mortars are underutilized at the CTCs Are CTC results a proper measure of mortar performance If the first two answers are yes can the causes of underutilization be identified and Can fixes be identified in doctrine training organization leadership or equipment to improve mortar performance Take Home Packages THP and field observations prepared by three CTCs were reviewed to assist in evaluating mortar training These data suggested that light medium and heavy mortar weapons were underutilized or ineffective at all three CTCs studied The National Training Center NTC the Joint Readiness Training Center JRTC and the Combat Maneuver Training Center CMTC The authors also reviewed the methods employed at each CTC to replicate indirect fire and its effects Battle Damage Assessment was performed by fire markers or by observer controllers according to fire effects tables These data confirmed that mortars caused little damage and mortar ammunition expenditure fell far below that expected Mortars are underutilized at the CTCs because of perceived limited effects of suppression and for heavy mortar training limited dismounted infantry activity at NTC and CMTC The authors conclude that staff planning failure is the prime cause of mortar underutilization The responsibility for this problem is shared between the maneuver and fire support staffs 45 tables 16 figures 19 refs 7

Military Geography for Professionals and the Public John M. Collins, 1998 Excerpt from Military Geography for Professionals and the Public The dearth of consolidated studies on the discipline of military geography came to John Collins attention early in his long and distinguished career as a soldier and scholar Thus he began and kept up an interest in the subject for more than 40 years amassing voluminous files on the subject Finally afforded the opportunity to research and write on his avocation at the National Defense University he spent 2 years as a Visiting Fellow tapping not only his own wealth of data and experience but a wide variety of well informed opinions on every facet of military geography The resultant volume the culmination of a life long career fills a gap in the professional and technical literature The National Defense University is pleased to have hosted John Collins and to publish his work No other book to our knowledge marries military art with that of the geographer so deftly and completely The volume seems destined to meet its stated purposes for years to come namely to provide a textbook for students a handbook for military professionals and an enlightening survey for any appreciative lay reader About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Blueprint for the AirLand Battle United States. Department of the Army, 1991 FM 100 5 Operations is the Army s keystone warfighting manual It explains how Army forces plan and conduct campaigns major operations battles and engagements in conjunction with other services and allied forces It furnishes the authoritative foundation for subordinate doctrine force design materiel acquisition professional education and individual and unit training It applies to Army forces worldwide but must be adapted to the specific strategic and operational requirements of each theater While emphasizing conventional military operations it recognizes that Army forces must be capable of operating effectively in any battlefield environment including low intensity conflict and on the nuclear and chemical battlefield Employment of nuclear and chemical weapons by US forces is governed by US national policy FM 100 5 is compatible with and will serve as the US implementing document for NATO land forces tactical doctrine Allied Tactical Publication 35A but is both more theoretical and more general so as to meet US needs in other theaters US troops operating in the framework of FM 100 5 will execute NATO s forward defense plans in compliance with ATP 35A As the Army s principal tool of professional self education in the science and art of war FM 100 5 presents a stable body of operational and tactical principles rooted in actual military experience and capable of providing a long term foundation for the development of more transitory tactics techniques and procedures It provides operational guidance for use by commanders and trainers at all echelons and forms the foundation for Army service school curricula FM 100 5 emphasizes flexibility and speed mission type orders initiative among commanders at all levels and the spirit of the offense This edition reaffirms the Army s doctrinal thrust introduced in 1982 It reflects the lessons learned since that time from combat operations teachings exercises wargames and comments from the Army in the field Central aspects of AirLand Battle doctrine its recognition of the importance of the operational level of warfare its focus on the seizure and retention of the initiative and its insistence on the requirement for multiservice cooperation remain unaltered The basic tenets of AirLand Battle doctrine initiative agility depth and synchronization are reemphasized BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved The United States Army Peter Tsouras, Bruce W.
