Amphibious Ships:

U.S. Amphibious Ships and Craft Norman Friedman, 2002 In this latest addition to his acclaimed U S warship design history series Norman Friedman describes the ships and the craft of the U S amphibious force from its inception in the 1920s through World War II to the present He explains how and why the United States successfully created an entirely new kind of fleet to fight and win such World War II battles as D Day and the island landings in the Pacific To an extent not previously documented his book lays out the differing views and contributions of the U S Army Navy and Marines as well as the British and how they affected the development of prewar and wartime amphibious forces Current and future amphibious forces and tactics are explained together with their implications for ships and craft from 40 000 ton amphibious carriers down to tracked amphibious vehicles As in earlier volumes in the series this study uses previously unpublished sources to illustrate not only what was actually built but what was planned and never brought into service For example the book offers the first comprehensive and fully illustrated account of abortive attempts in the 1960s and beyond to build new fire support ships LFS With nearly two hundred photographs and specially commissioned line drawings and extensive appendixes the work conveniently brings together details of the ships and their service histories found elsewhere only in scattered official references
