Counting My Steps ,1972 Counting My Steps Jakov Lind,1970 Counting my steps Jakov Lind,1966 Jewish Quarterly ,2006 The New York Times Book Review ,1972-04 Translingual Identities Tamar Steinitz,2013 Explores the psychology of literary translingualism in the works of two authors finding it expressed as loss and fragmentation in one case and as opportunity and mediation in the other The works of translingual writers those who write in a language other than their native tongue present a rich field for study but literary translingualism remains underresearched and undertheorized In this work Tamar Steinitz explores the psychological effects of translingualism in the works of two authors the German Stefan Heym 1913 2001 and the Austrian Jakov Lind 1927 2007 Both were forced into exile by the rise of Nazism both chose English as a language of artistic expression Steinitz argues that translingualism which ruptures the perceived link between language and world as the writer chooses between systems of representation leads to a psychic split that can be expressed in the writer's work as a schizophrenic existence or as a productive doubling of perspective Movement between languages can thus reflect both the freedom associated with geographical mobility and the emotional price it entails Reading Lind's and Heym's works within their postwar context Steinitz proposes these authors as representative models respectively of translingualism as loss and fragmentation and translingualism as opportunity and mediation Tamar Steinitz teaches English literature at Queen Mary and Goldsmiths colleges University of London She has also worked as a literary translator

Practicing Imperfection Charles T. Dupree,2016-12-13 To know life is to look at it honestly Practicing Imperfection is a candid exploration of one person's move from being addicted to praise and perfection to becoming more comfortable in his own skin Through humor and a healthy dose of sarcasm Practicing Imperfection shares the journey of Episcopal priest Charles Dupree in developing a consistent sustainable meditation practice Dupree describes how the ancient practice of meditation can bring about a healthier happier more awakened existence and what for him has been a healing balm in a busy world and demanding vocation Drawing from childhood experiences a recent sabbatical and the experiences of serving as a parish priest Dupree examines some of life's larger questions As an Episcopal priest he is clearly religious but also wholeheartedly spiritual Uniting those seemingly conflicted qualities he helps us see that we are all looking for the same thing freedom from that which no longer serves us In our modern world it is difficult to carve out the space to examine what is going on in our lives and minds meditation is a way to create that space This is a book for people who want to be released from the pressures of being better smarter or more successful and those who want to lighten up and be a fuller participant in life
