Discussing Columbus:

A Historical Geography of Christopher Columbus's First Voyage and his Interactions with Indigenous Peoples of the Caribbean

Al M. Rocca, 2024-05-02 This book offers a unique account of Christopher Columbus's first voyage, the most consequential voyage in world history. It provides a detailed day-by-day account of the explorer's travels and activities, richly illustrated with thematic maps. This work expands our understanding of Columbus's first voyage by mapping his sea and land experiences, offering both a historical and geographical exploration of his first voyage. Traveling chronologically through events, the reader builds a spatial insight into Columbus's perspectives that confused and confirmed his pre-existing notions of Asia and the Indies, driving him onward in search of new geographic evidence. Drawing from a diverse range of primary and secondary historical resources, this book is beautifully adorned with illustrations that facilitate an in-depth exploration of the connections between the places Columbus encountered and his subsequent social interactions with Indigenous people. This methodology allows the reader to better understand Columbus's actions as he analyzes new geographic realities with pre-existing notions of the Indies. Attention is given to Columbian primary sources which analyze how those materials have been used to create a narrative by historians. Readers will learn about the social and political structures of the Lucayan, Taíno, and Carib peoples, achieving a deeper understanding of those pre-Columbian cultures at the time of contact. The book will appeal to students and researchers in the disciplines of history, geography, and anthropology, and the general reader interested in Columbus.

Colormute Mica Pollock, 2009-04-11 This book considers in unprecedented detail one of the most confounding questions in American racial practice: when to speak about people in racial terms. Viewing race talk through the lens of a California high school and district, Colormute draws on three years of ethnographic research on everyday race labeling in education. Based on the author's experiences as a teacher as well as an anthropologist, it discusses the role race plays in everyday and policy talk about such familiar topics as discipline, achievement, curriculum reform, and educational inequality. Pollock illustrates the wide variations in the way speakers use race labels. Sometimes people use them without thinking twice; at other moments they avoid them at all costs or use them only in the description of particular situations. While a major concern of everyday race talk in schools is that racial descriptions will be inaccurate or inappropriate, Pollock demonstrates that anxiously suppressing race words, being what she terms colormute, can also cause educators to reproduce the very racial inequities they abhor. The book assists readers in cultivating a greater understanding of the pitfalls and possibilities of everyday race talk and clarifies previously murky discussions of colorblindness. By bridging the gap between theory and practice, Colormute will be enormously helpful in fostering ongoing conversations about dismantling racial inequality in America.

Instructional Strategies for Middle and Secondary Social Studies Bruce E. Larson, Timothy A. Keiper, 2011-03-17 Written explicitly for pre-service social studies teachers, this exciting methods-based text integrates an in-depth look at seven distinct teaching strategies with appropriate management and assessment techniques The Great Speckled Bird Catherine Cornbleth, Dexter Waugh, 2012-12-06 This unique volume takes readers behind the scenes for an insider outsider view of education policymaking in action Two state level case studies of social studies curriculum reform and textbook policy California and New York illustrate how curriculum decision making becomes an arena in which battles are fought over national values and priorities Written by a New York education professor and a California journalist the text offers a rare blend of academic and journalistic voices The great speckled bird is the authors counter symbol to the bald eagle a metaphor representing the racial ethnic cultural diversity that has characterized the U S since its beginnings and the multicultural reality of American society today The text breaks new ground by focusing on the intersections of national debates and education policymaking It situates the case studies within historical and contemporary cultural contexts with particular attention to questions of power and knowledge control and how influence is exercised By juxtaposing the contrasting cases of California and New York the authors illustrate commonalities and differences in education policymaking goals and processes By sharing stories of participants at and behind the scenes policymaking comes alive rather than appearing to result from impersonal forces or factors The Ohio Bulletin of Charities and Correction Ohio Board of State Charities, 1919 Educational Research Bulletin , 1926 The Ohio Bulletin of Charities and Correction ... , 1915 A Discussion of Telephone Competition Ohio Independent Telephone Association, John H.
