Geographical Information System (GIS): to make use of a powerful combination of instruments capable of receiving, recording, recalling, transforming, representing and processing georeferenced spatial data.

Decision Support System (DSS): to implement complex Geographical Information Systems, meant to create possible scenarios by modelling the ground truth and to offer a set of solutions to the decision maker.

Expert System (ES): to consider instruments capable of imitating the experts' cognitive processes and their ability to manage the complexity of reality by means of interdependent processes of abstraction, generalization and approximation.

WebGIS: to distribute geographic data remotely stored on dedicated machines for databases, according to complex network architectures.

Ontology: to specify a conceptuality, i.e. the description of concepts and relationships existing for an element or among various elements of a group, entity or class; conceptualization is an abstract simplified vision of the world to be represented for a given application.
