Convivial Dickens Edward Hewett,William F. Axton,1983 A full length account of the drinks and drinking customs of the Victorian era keyed to the innumerable scenes of imbibing in the life works and times of Charles Dickens Reading the Brontë Body Beth Torgerson,2005-08-19 Anne Emily and Charlotte Bront s literary representations of illness and disease reflect the major role illness played in the lives of the Victorians and its frequent reoccurrence within the Bront s personal lives An in depth analysis of the history of nineteenth century medicine provides the necessary cultural context to understand these representations giving modern readers a sense of how health illness and the body were understood in Victorian England Together medical anthropology and the history of medicine offer a useful lens with which to understand Victorian texts Reading the Bront Body is the first scholarly attempt to provide both the theoretical framework and historical background to make such a literary analysis of the Bront novels possible while exploring how these representations of disease and illness work within a larger cultural framework Dickensiana Frederic George Kitton,1886 Lincoln and Liquor Duncan Chambers Milner,1920 Golden hours, ed. by W.M. Whittemore William Meynell Whittemore,1884 volume based on the first two identifies the verbal and nonverbal personal and environmental components of narrative and dramaturgic texts and the cinema recreated in the first through the reading act according to gaze mechanism and punctuation and traces the coding decoding processes of the characters semiotic communicative itinerary between writer creator and reader recreator In our total experience of a play or film we depend on the sensory and intellectual relationships between performers audience and the environment of both in a temporal dimension starting on the way to the theater and ending as one comes out Two chapters discuss the speaking face and body of the characters and the explicit and implicit at times unstageable paralanguage kinesics and quasiparalinguistic and extrasomatic and environmental sounds in the novel the theater and the cinema and the functions of personal and environmental silences Another shows the functions limitations and problems of punctuation systems in the creative recreative processes and how a few new symbols and modifications would avoid some ambiguities The stylistic communicative and technical functions of nonverbal repertoires in the literary text are then identified as enriching critical analysis and offering new perspectives in translation Finally literary anthropology developed by the author in the 1970s is is presented as an interdisciplinary area based on synchronic and diachronic analyses of the literatures of the different cultures as a source of anthropological and ethnological data Nearly 1200 quotes from 170 authors and 291 works are added to those in the first two volumes Current Literature ,1899
