Facing Our Differences Alan A. Brash,1995 The deep controversies within many churches have created a reluctance in many quarters to place the issue of homosexuality on the ecumenical agenda Yet an essential vocation of the ecumenical movement is to enable a dialogue among the churches at precisely those points where their differences of conviction are sharpest This book seeks to encourage just such a dialogue The author points the way towards respectful mutual understanding of divergent interpretations of the Bible theology and ethics in order to help Christians to reflect on their own convictions and to face together a sensitive topic which has profound consequences for the lives of many people and for the unity of the church In this book Alan A Brash seeks to encourage just such a dialogue on homosexuality What he has to say reflects his experiences in a local congregation in Aotearoa New Zealand as well as a familiarity with churches around the world that comes from many years of international ecumenical service Presbyterians in Aotearoa, 1840-1990 Dennis McEldowney,1990 A History of the Ecumenical Movement World Council of Churches,2004 This volume presents the history of the ecumenical movement worldwide over the last three decades Leading theologians and ecumenists from a variety of traditions have come together to describe and analyze the movement s most recent developments Together with Volumes I and II this Volume now completes this major reference work the only official history of the ecumenical movement This is a key purchase for all scholars church leaders clergy and students and it is an invaluable companion to Volumes I and II United Church Herald ,1969 The Christian Century ,1960 The Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record ,1920 International Christian Literature Documentation Project Douglas W.
