

As reported by The BBC, the Government have recently promised that all care home residents and staff with COVID- 19 symptoms will be tested as laboratory capacity increases. Reportedly, Health Secretary Matt Hancock said he was “determined” to ensure that those in need of tests have access to them. The BBC say that there have been outbreaks at more than 2,000 care homes.

This move by the Government comes after it was revealed that the daily statistics that are shared with the public have not been a representation of the full picture, sadly, missing out completely the deaths within the community and in care homes. As of 15th April 2020, the UK coronavirus verified deaths came to a total of 12,868.

The Guardian recently reported that two of the largest care home providers in the UK have reported the deaths of 521 residents. HC- One, which operates around 350 homes, told the Guardian that as of 8pm on Monday 13th April, there had been “311 deaths from confirmed or suspected COVID- 19.” They also reported outbreaks in two thirds of their homes. Another operator, MHA, reported 210 deaths across 131 homes, and outbreaks in 50% of its homes. In contrast, official figures released on Tuesday 14th April showed just 237 people died from Coronavirus in care homes in two weeks.
