Beast or Angel? Rene Dubos, 2017-09-29 The world of things is different now from what it was half a century ago but Rene Dubos doubts that there have been basic changes in life itself in those attitudes and activities needs and yearning that are the most important for happiness and suffering for hope and despair the differences between humanity and animality Sophisticated and civilized as we may be we have retained from our distant ancestors the ability to derive profound satisfaction from the small happenings of daily life Beast or Angel attempts to trace the origins of needs and yearnings that have always been those of humankind everywhere and always In this search Dubos expresses the same concerns and uses the same words when speaking of the past the present or the future the reason being that the biological and psychological characteristics of humankind have remained essentially the same for at least fifty millennia We are human to the extent that we live according to certain principles which have a human quality This quality has emerged and continues to emerge from the choices that we make throughout our individual lives and that humankind has made from the beginning of its existence To be human is to be able and willing to choose among the options that are offered to the human species by the natural order of things This book examines human species not only on the basis of the biological and psychological attributes it shares with animal species but more by identifying its choices throughout pre history and history

America s most prominent poets engage in a process that is both dialectic and holotropic as they continually create through doubling fuller and more fluid self identity Ultimately their use of alter selves to deepen their subjectivity and transform otherness expands their voice and vision culminating late in their careers in a polyphony of self Bridging literary scholarship and writing pedagogy this book concludes by illustrating how the two poets writing practices offer invigorating models and departure points for writing students in contemporary literature and composition classrooms
