Contemporary Realism:

Contemporary Realism Richard D. Segal, Monica M. Segal, 2007 Richard and Monica Segal are unabashedly enthusiastic about contemporary realism Richard Segal described the building of their renowned collection of art from that genre as an addiction that filled my soul with the peace that comes from understanding That passion to preserve and share the realist aesthetic shines through here This stunning large format book showcases more than 100 works of contemporary realism ranging from oil and acrylic paintings to cast glass and bronze statues Many of the pieces are accompanied by essays that explore the artist's work and provide various interpretations of the work's overall intention Among the works featured are Will Cotton's mesmerizing Ice Cream Cavern portraits like Alex Katz's Amanda and landscapes such as Malcolm Morley's Pictures from the Azores and Jennifer Bartlett's oddly disquieting At Sands Point 21 The book even includes Damian Loeb's strange hyper-realistic I'm Getting to You very slowly and other works that challenge readers to view the world anew

Modern Realism in English-Canadian Fiction Colin Hill, 2012-01-01 Much of the scholarship on twentieth century Canadian literature has argued that English Canadian fiction was plagued by backwardness and an inability to engage fully with the movement of modernism that was so prevalent in British and American fiction and poetry Modern Realism in English Canadian Fiction re-evaluates Canadian literary culture to posit that it has been misunderstood because it is a distinct genre a regional form of the larger international modernist movement Examining literary magazines manifestos archival documents and major writers such as Frederick Philip Grove Morley Callaghan and Raymond Knister Colin Hill identifies a modern realism that crosses regions as well as urban and rural divides A bold reading of the modern realist aesthetic and an articulate challenge to several enduring and limiting myths about Canadian writing Modern Realism in English Canadian Fiction will stimulate important debate in literary circles everywhere

Radical History and the Politics of Art Gabriel Rockhill, 2014-07-15 Gabriel Rockhill opens new space for rethinking the relationship between art and politics Rather than understanding the two spheres as separated by an insurmountable divide or linked by a privileged bridge Rockhill demonstrates that art and politics are not fixed entities with a singular relation but rather dynamically negotiated sociohistorical practices with shifting and imprecise borders Radical History and the Politics of Art proposes a significant departure from extant debates on what is commonly called art and politics and the result is an impressive foray into the force field of history in which cultural practices are meticulously analyzed in their social and temporal dynamism without assuming a conceptual unity behind them Rockhill thereby develops an alternative logic of history and historical change as well as a novel account of social practices and a multidimensional theory of agency Engaging with a diverse array of intellectual artistic and political constellations this tour de force diligently maps the various interactions between different dimensions of aesthetic and political practices as they intertwine and sometimes merge in precise fields of struggle
