Ecocritical Concerns and the Australian Continent Beate Neumeier, Helen Tiffin, 2019-11-08 Ecocritical Concerns and the Australian Continent investigates literary historical anthropological and linguistic perspectives in connection with activist engagements The necessary cross fertilization between these different perspectives throughout this volume emerges in the resonances between essays exploring recurring concerns ranging from biodiversity and preservation policies to the devastating effects of the mining industries to present concerns and futuristic visions of the effects of climate change Of central concern in all of these contexts is the impact of settler colonialism and an increasing turn to indigenous knowledge systems A number of chapters engage with questions of ecological imperialism in relation to specific sociohistorical moments and effects probing early colonial encounters between settlers and indigenous people or rereading specific forms of colonial literature Other essays take issue with past and present constructions of indigeneity in different contexts as well as with indigenous resistance against such ascriptions while the importance of an understanding of indigenous notions of care for country is taken up from a variety of different disciplinary angles in terms of interconnectedness anchoredness living country and living heritage
