The Auden Generation Samuel Hynes, 2011-04-30 This is a study of a literary generation writing in a period of expanding fears and ever more urgent political and social crises The pace of the time itself the sense of time passing and an end approaching gave a special quality to the Thirties The public world pressed insistently on the private world For those who came of literary age Auden Day Lewis MacNeice Spender Graham Greene Isherwood and Orwell among them writing became a form of action In the process a generation discovered itself and found its own expression

Transnationalism and Translation in Modern Chinese, English, French and Japanese Literatures Ryan Johnson, 2020-12-15 The theory of literary worlds has become increasingly important in comparative and world literatures But how are the often contradictory elements of Eastern and Western literatures to cohere in the new worlds such contact creates Drawing on the latest work in philosophical logic and analytic Asian philosophy this monograph proposes a new model of literary worlds that is best suited to comparative literature dealing with Western and East Asian traditions Unlike much discussion of world literature anchored in North American traditions featured here is the transnational work of artists philosophers and poets writing in English French Japanese and Mandarin in the twentieth century Rather than imposing sharp borders this book suggests that vague boundaries link Eastern and Western literary works and traditions and that degrees of distance can better help us to see the multiple dimensions that both distinguish and join together literary worlds East and West As such it enables us to grasp not only how East Asian and Western writers translate one another's works into their own languages and traditions but also how modern writers East and West modify their own traditions in order to make them fit in the new constellation of literary worlds brought about by the complex flow of literary information across twentieth century Eurasia

A Journey in Translation Lee Skallerup Bessette, 2016-08-03 This book traces the remarkable journey of H bert's shifting authorial identity as versions of her work traveled through complex and contested linguistic and national terrain from the late 1950s until today At the center of this exploration of H bert's work are the people who were inspired by her poetry to translate and more widely disseminate her poems to a wider audience Exactly how did this one woman's work travel so much farther than the vast majority of Qu b cois authors Though the haunting quality of her art partly explains her wide appeal her work would have never traveled so far without the effort of scores of passionately committed translators editors and archivists Though the work of such middle men is seldom recognized much less scrutinized as a factor in shaping the meaning and reach of an artist in Herbert's case the process of translating Herbert's poetry has left in its wake a number of archival and other paratextual resources that chronicle the individual acts of translation and their reception Though the impact of translation editions and archival work has been largely ignored in studies of Canadian literary history the treasure trove of such paratextual records in Herbert's case allows us to better understand the reach of her work More importantly it provides insight into and raises critical questions about the textually mediated process of nation building and literary canon formation Published in English Poet Lore Charlotte Endymion Porter, Helen Archibald Clarke, Ruth Hill, John Heard (Jr.), Eisig Silberschlag, Edmund Randolph Brown, John Williams Andrews, Philip K. Jason, Kevin Madden, 1903 A Comparative Estimate of Modern English Poets Joseph Devey, 1873 Contemporary Review, 1877 Index-guide to Library of the World's Best Literature, Ancient and Modern Edward Cornelius Towne, 1899
