

Poems About Dreams

FLYING

One time I was flying.
The sky was bright blue.
There wasn't an airplane:
I'll swear this is true.

My arms were spread wide
And the clouds made it foggy.
Hair flew off my face,
Neither frizzled nor soggy.

I didn't know how,
But I wanted to land.
I gripped at the air
With both right and left hand.

I rushed toward a tree,
Thought my shoulder would break.
My eyes flew wide open,
Now gladly awake!

Contending To Be The Dream Poems:

Embracing the Melody of Expression: An Mental Symphony within Contending To Be The Dream Poems

In some sort of eaten by displays and the ceaseless chatter of instant connection, the melodic splendor and mental symphony produced by the published term often disappear into the back ground, eclipsed by the persistent sound and distractions that permeate our lives. But, set within the pages of Contending To Be The Dream Poems a stunning fictional treasure filled with natural emotions, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Crafted by an outstanding composer of language, that fascinating masterpiece conducts readers on a psychological trip, skillfully unraveling the concealed songs and profound affect resonating within each carefully constructed phrase. Within the depths of this moving evaluation, we will discover the book is central harmonies, analyze its enthralling publishing design, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
