Continent In Limbo:

Continent in Limbo Edith Sulkin, 2000-10-07 A personal story of Europe's people in the crucial years 1946-47. The guns were silent but the peace had not yet begun. Edith Sulkin traveled as a 23-year-old reporter through England, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Holland, and Germany. This report is in terms of people rather than governments. Equipped with their language and the knowledge of how to approach them, she was able to assemble a remarkable picture of how the people of Europe came through the war. Sulkin found a continent suspended between the ideologies of the East and West with many of its people desperately seeking the harbor of a middle way. Continent in Limbo, 1947 Moving Texts, Migrating People and Minority Languages Michał Borodo, Juliane House, Wojciech Wachowski, 2017-04-19 In an age of migration in a world deeply divided through cultural differences and in the context of ongoing efforts to preserve national and regional traditions and identities, the issues of language and translation are becoming absolutely vital. At the heart of these complex intercultural interactions are various types of agents, intermediaries, and mediators, including translators, writers, artists, policy makers, and publishers involved in the preservation or rejuvenation of literary and cultural repertoires, languages, and identities. The major themes of this book include language and translation in the context of migration and diasporas, migrant experiences and identities, the translation from and into minority and lesser-used languages, but also in a broader sense, the international circulation of texts, concepts, and people. The volume offers a valuable resource for researchers in the field of translation studies, lecturers teaching translation at the university level, and postgraduate students in translation studies. Further, it will benefit researchers in migration studies, linguistics, literary and cultural studies who are interested in learning how translation studies relates to other disciplines. English Translations of Korczak's Children's Fiction Michał Borodo, 2020-02-22 This book investigates major linguistic transformations in the translation of children's literature, focusing on the English language translations of Janusz Korczak, a Polish Jewish children's writer known for his innovative pedagogical methods as the head of a Warsaw orphanage for Jewish children in pre-war Poland. The author outlines fourteen tendencies in translated children's literature, including mitigation, simplification, stylization, hyperbolization, cultural assimilation, and fairytailization, in order to analyze various translations of King Matt the First, Big Business Billy, and Kaytek the Wizard. The author then addresses the translators' treatment of racial issues based on the socio-cultural context. The book will be of use to students and researchers in the field of translation studies and researchers interested in children's literature or Janusz Korczak. Dark Continents Ranjana Khanna, 2003-04-22 Argues that the psychoanalytic self was constituted through the specifically national colonial encounters of the late 19th and early 20th centuries and that therefore, somewhat paradoxically, perhaps psychoanalysis is crucial for understanding postcoloniality. Through Other Continents Wai Chee Dimock, 2008-10-20 What we call American literature is quite often a shorthand, a simplified name for an extended tangle of relations. This is the argument of Through Other Continents. Wai Chee Dimock's sustained effort to read American literature as a subset of world literature Inspired by an unorthodox archive ranging from epic traditions in Akkadian and Sanskrit to folk art paintings by Veronese and Tiepolo and the music of the Grateful Dead Dimock constructs a long history of the world a history she calls deep time The civilizations of Mesopotamia India Egypt China and West Africa as well as Europe leave their mark on American literature which looks dramatically different when it is removed from a strictly national or English language context Key authors such as Thoreau Margaret Fuller Ezra Pound Robert Lowell Gary Snyder Leslie Silko Gloria Naylor and Gerald Vizenor are transformed in this light Emerson emerges as a translator of Islamic culture Henry James s novels become long distance kin to Gilgamesh and Black English loses its ungrammaticalness when reclassified as a creole tongue meshing the input from Africa Europe and the Americas Throughout Dimock contends that American literature is answerable not to the nation state but to the human species as a whole and that it looks dramatically different when removed from a strictly national or English language context

Untrammelled Approaches Jacques Maritain,1997 A group of essays prepared for publication by Maritain in the year before his death The first series of articles consists of 10 philosophical essays while second is made up of mainly theological articles A meditation closes the volume
