weave themselves into Rome's Christian past Maya Maskarinec shows how from late antiquity to early modernity elite Roman families used genealogy architecture and the urban fabric to appropriate the city's saints for their own eventually claiming them as ancestors Over the course of the Middle Ages there developed a pronounced sense that churches and their saints belonged to specific regions neighborhoods and even families These associations coupled with a resurgent interest in Rome's Christian antiquity as well as in noble lineages enabled Roman families to domesticate the city's saints and dominate the urban landscape and its politics into the early modern era These families cultivated saintly genealogies and saintly topologies exploiting for example the increasingly prolific identification of churches as the former residences of early Christian and late antique saints cementing presumed connections between place descent and moral worth Drawing from sources spanning the fourth to the late sixteenth century Maskarinec brings into conversation saints lives documentary evidence family genealogies monumental and domestic architecture and medieval and early modern guidebooks sources not often studied together Bridging the divide between secular and sacred histories of Rome Domesticating Saints in Medieval and Early Modern Rome repositions these materials within a new story of how Romans made the city's classical and Christian past their own and thereby empowered and immortalized their families Bulletin, 1920 The Geology of Hardin County, and the Adjoining Part of Pope County Stuart Weller, Charles Butts, Louis Wade Currier, Rollin D.
