Abstract. Economic globalization and the information technology revolution have for the first time linked the destinies of mankind, and analyzing the complex practices of today, terrorism is growing in the process of globalization. This means that terrorism is no longer a governance problem for individual actors, so the construction of a community of human destiny to achieve cooperation and common governance among nations is particularly important under this topic. This paper will be based on the profound reality of contemporary global terrorism, a deeper understanding of its concepts, a study of existing governance theories, an analysis of visualized reality information from the GTD database, a retrospective study of contemporary global terrorism, and an exploration of effective ways of global governance based on the value principle of actively building a community of human destiny.

Keywords: Terrorism; GTD data; Typologies; Causes; Global governance.

1. Introduction

In August 2021, the US-backed "Islamic Republic of Afghanistan" collapsed when the Taliban captured the capital Kabul, and in September of the same year, the Taliban announced the formation of an interim government; the year 2021 also marks the twentieth anniversary of the September 11 attacks. International opinion is divided on the nature of the Afghan Taliban, with one side arguing that it is a terrorist organization and the other classifying it as a politico-military organization due to its political and diplomatic stance. In a sense, the two decades of turmoil in Afghanistan can be seen as a struggle between the "comprador government" and the "religious fanatics". And with the "religious fanatics" in power in Afghanistan, whether the international community will recognize its legitimacy and change the characterization of its terrorist organizations in the previous two decades will depend on the contribution of the Taliban regime to the people and construction of the Afghan region.

Against this backdrop, the concept of terrorism seems to have blurred boundaries, with the resurgence of mass terrorist attacks after a twenty-year hiatus. Therefore, this paper will explore the connotation of terrorism in the era of globalization based on a new historical point, while using documentary and data analysis to summarize the current situation of terrorist incidents, combine theoretical research to find the causes of contemporary global terrorism, and discuss effective countermeasures for global governance of terrorism from the standpoint of building a community of human destiny.

2. Overview of contemporary theories related to global terrorism

The concept of terrorism has been difficult to define for domestic and international research scholars for quite some time. In order to deepen the understanding of the problem, this section will combine the wisdom of renowned scholars and organizations to collate and summaries the basic characteristics of terrorism and effective governance mechanisms by linking theory to practice.

2.1 Consensus on the definition of contemporary global terrorism

For Alex Schmid, a leading scholar in the field of terrorism and counter-terrorism studies, there are four reasons why the concept of terrorism is difficult to reach a consensus on: (1) different fields often disagree on its popular conception, and terrorism has strong emotional and moral undertones that make it difficult to apply to particular events or groups;(2) the problem of defining terrorism is related to (de)legitimation and criminalisation; (3) terrorism has complex and diverse manifestations;
