Contemporary Chinese Philosophy:

Contemporary Chinese Philosophy Chung-Ying Cheng, Nicholas Bunnin, 2008-04-15 Contemporary Chinese Philosophy features discussion of sixteen major twentieth century Chinese philosophers Leading scholars in the field describe and critically assess the works of these significant figures Critically assesses the work of major contemporary Chinese philosophers that have rarely been discussed in English Features essays by leading scholars in the field Includes a glossary of Chinese characters and definitions Contemporary Chinese Political Thought Fred Dallmayr, Zhao Tingyang, 2012-07-27 Westerners seem united in the belief that China has emerged as a major economic power and that this success will most likely continue indefinitely But they are less certain about the future of China's political system China's steps toward free market capitalism have led many outsiders to expect increased democratization and a more Western political system The Chinese however have developed their own version of capitalism Westerners view Chinese politics through the lens of their own ideologies preventing them from understanding Chinese goals and policies In Contemporary Chinese Political Thought Debates and Perspectives Fred Dallmayr and Zhao Tingyang bring together leading Chinese intellectuals to debate the main political ideas shaping the rapidly changing nation Investigating such topics as the popular China Model the resurgence of Chinese Confucianism and its applications to the modern world and liberal socialism the contributors move beyond usual analytical frameworks toward what Dallmayr and Zhao call a dismantling of ideological straitjackets Comprising a broad range of opinions and perspectives Contemporary Chinese Political Thought is the most up to date examination in English of modern Chinese political attitudes and discourse Features contributions from Ji Wenshun Zhou Lian Zhao Tingyang Zhang Feng Liu Shuxian Chen Ming He Baogang Ni Peimin Ci Jiwei Cui Zhiyuan Frank Fang Wang Shaoguang and Cheng Guangyun Contemporary Chinese Philosophy Frederick J. Adelman, 1982 Contemporary Chinese Philosophy F.J. Adelman, 2012-12-06 The idea of the present sixth volume in the Boston College Studies in Philosophy entitled Contemporary Chinese Philosophy was conceived by the editor several years ago before the current resumption of Chinese American political and economic amity occurred officially Several preceding volumes in this series had studied various aspects of Marxism especially Soviet Marxism Possibilities for dialogue between Christians and Marxists were discussed not only in the series but elsewhere too in various philosophical journals and books through the sixties and seventies It was only a natural outcome then to wonder about the same possibilities in regard to Chinese Marxism Hence I sent off to many potential contributors scholars in the field the following proposal seeking papers for a volume on Contemporary Chinese Philosophy The themes that should constitute the content of the articles were as follows 1 How rigidly do contemporary Chinese adhere to Marxism Leninism Naturally this means principally the educated persons but it might include the non academic segment of the people By Marxism Leninism here I mean the contemporary Soviet brand Hence I do not mean Marx's early writings or the developments of people like Kolakowski 2 Are they constrained to think in a kind of horizontal materialism or are they open to a species of transcendence that might include the God problem or a belief in another life after this one on earth 3
