Contesting The Master Narrative:

Contesting the Master Narrative Jeffrey Cox, Shelton Stromquist, 1998 Social historians today are calling into question the persuasiveness of the master narratives that have dominated our stories about the past. Motivated now by personal and professional commitments to solving problems by telling stories not by epistemological and ontological certitude, social historians are constructing alternative narratives relevant to an expanded, more inclusive audience. The essays in this thoughtful volume reflect an explicit self-consciousness about historians' choices of narrative strategies, a new skepticism of the rhetorical strategies embedded in all scholarly arguments, and a recognition that every historian has a point of view. Critically examining past master narratives in light of emerging alternatives, these essayists ask us to reevaluate the stories we tell, the narrative traditions within which they are situated, and the audiences they are designed to persuade. The first essays explore the gendered character of social history rhetoric by exposing alternative feminist traditions of social scientific and social historical writing. The second section focuses on alternative narrative traditions of historical writing in non-European contexts, specifically India, Japan, and China. And the third group spotlights the rhetorical uses of synthesis in the writings of social historians. The essays feature the range of narrative possibilities available to historians who have become self-critical about the pervasive use of unexamined master narratives; they show how limited that tradition can be compared with the diverse alternatives derived from, for example, gendered traditions of Latin American travel writers of the nineteenth century, Victorian women's historical writing, or the lively subaltern tradition in Indian social history. Together they argue not for the abandonment of historical materialism or the elimination of all master narratives, but for the reinvigoration of social history through the use of new and more persuasive arguments based on alternative narratives.

Challenging the Master Narrative René Clark, 2000 Damaged Identities, Narrative Repair Hilde Lindemann, 2001 The nature of identity, especially of groups such as Gypsies, mothers, nurses, and transsexuals, is explored by comparing the stories these groups express of themselves against the narratives written about them. Feminist Academic Press. Hilde Lindemann Nelson focuses on the stories of groups of people including Gypsies, mothers, nurses, and transsexuals whose identities have been defined by those with the power to speak for them and to constrain the scope of their actions. By placing their stories side by side with narratives about the groups in question, Nelson arrives at some important insights regarding the nature of identity. She regards personal identity as consisting not only of how people view themselves but also of how others view them. These perceptions combine to shape the person's field of action. If a dominant group constructs the identities of certain people through socially shared narratives that mark them as morally subnormal, those who bear the damaged identity cannot exercise their moral agency freely. Nelson identifies two kinds of damage inflicted on identities by abusive group relations: one kind deprives individuals of important social goods, and the other deprives them of self-respect. To intervene in the production of either kind of damage, Nelson develops the counterstory, a strategy of resistance that allows the identity to be narratively repaired and so restores the person to full membership in the social and moral community By attending to the power dynamics that constrict agency Damaged Identities Narrative Repair augments the narrative approaches of ethicists such as Alasdair MacIntyre Martha Nussbaum Richard Rorty and Charles Taylor

Women Voicing Resistance Suzanne McKenzie-Mohr,Michelle N. LaFrance,2014-03-26 Feminist scholars have demonstrated how dominant discourses and master narratives frequently reflect patriarchal influence thereby distorting and depoliticizing women s storying of their own lives In this groundbreaking volume a number of internationally recognized researchers working across a range of disciplines provide a detailed examination of women s attempts to counter story their lives when prevailing discourses are unhelpful or indeed harmful As such it is an exploration of women s agency and resistance which highlights the challenges and complexities of such discursive work The chapters explore women s resistance across a wide range of experiences including intimate partner violence casual sex depression premenstrual change disordered eating lesbian identity women s work in male dominated spaces rape and child birth Each chapter combines theoretical analyses with illuminating first hand accounts and elaborates practical implications that provide directions for individual and social change Providing an incisive and comprehensive exploration of discourse oppression and resistance that cuts across domains of women s everyday lives Women Voicing Resistance will be of great interest to students scholars and practitioners in the fields of psychology gender studies women s studies sociology and social work

The Battle over Birth Nicole Thualagant,Katja Schröder,2025-11-18 Childbirth is a site of ongoing struggle over meaning authority regulation and control This edited collection offers critical perspectives on current challenges in birth care by exploring how birth is shaped by competing epistemologies medical cultural experiential and political The book addresses analytically and theoretically some of the many negotiations tensions contestations and dilemmas with regard to care practices as well as birthing experiences Moreover the book reflects on how these challenges can be grasped as dilemmas moving beyond the often declared dichotomy between medical and midwifery models of care or natural versus medical birth The chapters are authored by researchers within the fields of social and human sciences located geographical in different countries within different historical organisational and political birth care settings The book is oriented to not only scholars and students with interest into birth care but also practitioners and stakeholders politically and professionally engaged in the development of maternity care practices and settings
