Anglo Saxon Animal Art And Its Germanic Background:

Anglo-Saxon Animal Art and Its Germanic Background George Speake, 1980 Representing Beasts in Early Medieval England and Scandinavia Michael D. J. Bintley, Thomas J. T. Williams, 2015 Essays on the depiction of animals birds and insects in early medieval material culture from texts to carvings to the landscape itself For people in the early Middle Ages the earth air water and ether teemed with other beings Some of these were sentient creatures that swam flew slithered or stalked through the same environments inhabited by their human contemporaries Others were objects that a modern beholder would be unlikely to think of as living things but could yet be considered to possess a vitality that rendered them potent Still others were things half glimpsed on a dark night or seen only in the mind s eye strange beasts that haunted dreams and visions or inhabited exotic lands beyond the compass of everyday knowledge This book discusses the various ways in which the early English and Scandinavians thought about and represented these other inhabitants of their world and considers the multi faceted nature of the relationship between people and beasts Drawing on the evidence of material culture art language literature place names and landscapes the studies presented here reveal a world where the boundaries between humans animals monsters and objects were blurred and often permeable and where to represent the bestial could be to hold a mirror to the self Michael D J Bintley is Senior Lecturer in Medieval Literature at Canterbury Christ Church University Thomas J T Williams is a doctoral researcher at UCL s Institute of Archaeology Contributors No 1 Adams John Baker Michael D J Bintley Sue Brunning L szl S ndor Chardonnens Della Hooke Eric Lacey Richard North Marijane Osborn Victoria Symons Thomas J Williams Animals in the Middle Ages Nona C. Flores, 2016-01-20 These interdisciplinary essays focus on animals as symbols ideas or images in medieval art and literature Global Perspectives on Early Medieval England Debby Banham, 2022 Interrogations of materiality and geography narrative framework and boundaries and the ways these scholarly pursuits ripple out into the wider cultural sphere Early medieval England as seen through the lens of comparative and interconnected histories is the subject of this volume Drawn from a range of disciplines its chapters examine artistic archaeological literary and historical artifacts converging around the idea that the period may not only define itself but is often defined from other perspectives specifically here by modern scholarship The first part considers the transmission of material culture across borders while querying the possibilities and limits of comparative and transnational approaches taking in the spread of bread wheat the collapse of the art historical decorative and functional and the unknowns about daily life in an early medieval English hall The volume then moves on to reimagine the permeable boundaries of early medieval England with perspectives from the Baltic Byzantium and the Islamic world including an examination of Vercelli Homily VII from John Chrysostom s Greek Homily XXIX H r n ibn Ya y s Arabic descriptions of Bar niyah Britain and an consideration of the Old English Orosius The final chapters address the construction of and responses to Anglo Saxon narratives past and present they look at early medieval England within a Eurasian perspective the historical origins of racialized Anglo Saxonism

The Lindisfarne Gospels Richard Gameson,2017-07-03 Masterpiece of medieval manuscript production and decoration its Latin text glossed throughout in Old English the Lindisfarne Gospels is a vital witness to the book culture art and Christianity of the Anglo Saxons and their interactions with Ireland Italy and the wider world The expert studies in this collection examine in turn the archaeology of Holy Island relations between Ireland and Northumbria early Northumbrian book culture the relationship of the Lindisfarne Gospels to the Church universal the canon table apparatus of the manuscript the decoration of its Canon Tables its systems of liturgical readings the mathematical principles underlying the design of its carpet pages points of comparison and contrast with the Book of Durrow the Latin and Old English texts the nature of the glossator s ink and the meaning of enigmatic words and phrases within the vernacular gloss Approaching the material from a series of new perspectives the contributors shed new light on numerous aspects of this magnificent manuscript its milieu and its significance

Vikings and the Vikings Paul Hardwick,Kate Lister,2019-10-31 This essay collection is a wide ranging exploration of Vikings the television series that has successfully summoned the historical world of the Norse people for modern audiences to enjoy From a range of critical viewpoints these all fresh essays explore the ways in which past and present representations of the Vikings converge in the show s richly textured dramatization of the rise and fall of Ragnar Loobrok and the exploits of his heirs creating what many viewers label a true representation of the age From the show s sources in both saga literature and Victorian revival to its engagement with contemporary concerns regarding gender race and identity via setting sex society and more this first book length study of the History Channel series appeals to fans of the show Viking enthusiasts and anyone with an interest in medievalist representation in the 21st century Crossing

Boundaries Eric Cambridge,Jane Hawkes,2017-04-30 Interdisciplinary studies are increasingly widely recognised as being among the most fruitful approaches to generating original perspectives on the medieval past In this major collection of 27 papers contributors transcend traditional disciplinary boundaries to offer new approaches to a number of themes ranging in time from late antiquity to the high Middle Ages The main focus is on material culture but also includes insights into the compositional techniques of Bede and the Beowulf poet and the strategies adopted by anonymous scribes to record information in unfamiliar languages Contributors offer fresh insights into some of the most iconic survivals from the period from the wooden doors of Sta Sabina in Rome to the Ruthwell Cross and from St Cuthbert s coffin to the design of its final resting place the Romanesque cathedral at Durham Important thematic surveys reveal early medieval Welsh and Pictish carvers interacting with the political and intellectual concerns of the wider Insular and continental world Other contributors consider what it is to be Viking revealing how radically present perceptions shape our understanding of the past how recent archaeological work reveals the inadequacy of the traditional categorisation of the Vikings as incomers and how recontextualising Viking material culture can lead to unexpected insights into famous historical episodes such as King Edgar's boat trip on the Dee Recent landmark finds notably the runic inscribed Saltfleetby spindle whorl and the sword pommel from Beckley are also published here for the first time in comprehensive analyses which will remain the fundamental discussions of these spectacular objects for many years to come This book will be indispensable reading for everyone interested in medieval culture

The Herefordshire School of Romanesque Sculpture Malcolm Thurlby, 1999 The Herefordshire School of Romanesque Sculpture produced a vibrant collection of work carved between c 1134 and 1155 by a group of sculptors who it would seem had received their initial training at Hereford Cathedral This book explores their work considering the careers of the two main sculptors the role of the patrons the sources of inspiration the coming together of the work of the sculptor with that of the metalworker and the illuminator and painter and the intended meaning behind some of the imagery As the authors explain the sculptors were working in the days of the Anarchy during the reign of King Stephen and at times they were working on or near the front line between the opposing factions supporting Stephen or Matilda In those dramatic times the tower of Hereford Cathedral was used to install siege engines with which to attack the nearby castle graveyards were dug up to provide trenches for attacking troops and the bishop of Hereford had to authorise temporary refuges in which people could seek safety Strange as it perhaps seems the patrons of the work of the sculptors were also warlords And despite these troubles the sculptors and the masons who helped them create their designs produced a collection of work that still gives great pleasure today Malcolm Thurlby has spent many years investigating the Herefordshire School and this book brings together all his latest thoughts not least on where the sculptors received their training and on the school's chronology and development He also discusses the interpretation of many of the images in some detail The book is illustrated with some four hundred mainly colour illustrations of both the work itself and some of the
