Creating Distinctiveness From Uncommon Colleges And Universities:

Creating Distinctiveness Barbara K. Townsend, Jackson Newell, Michael D. Wiese, 1992-10-14 Prepared by ERIC in cooperation with the Association for the Study of Higher Education The Making of a Distinctive Church College Dalton Reimer, 2020-08-20 The Making of a Distinctive Church College is a collection of essays that reveal the heart and soul of an institution of higher education in the making The author Dalton Reimer has been a major contributor to this making as a participant observer from its beginning in 1960 as a church related liberal arts college now university Toward the beginning he contributed to the formation of The Fresno Pacific Idea which has been the unique central guide in the development of the institution The story of the heart and soul of this making is told beginning with a small faculty and administrative group of mostly recent college and university graduates during the challenging 1960s Catalog of ERIC Clearinghouse Publications, 1995 Resources in Education, 1993 Planning for Higher Education, 1993 Models for Improving College Teaching Jon E. Travis, 1997 This report presents a collection of teaching models to help college faculty improve their teaching Six categories of teaching models are presented 1 assessment and feedback models including the Classroom Assessment model created by Angelo and Cross and already widely used among community college faculty 2 discussion and sharing models such as the Great Teachers Seminar which provide faculty with an event and an environment especially conducive to sharing ideas among colleagues 3 dissemination models which dispense an extensive assortment of ideas to large audiences of faculty 4 clinical development models such as the Instructional Skills Workshop which uses a laboratory setting common to teacher preparation programs 5 teaching and learning models such as Anderson's Adaptive Control of Thinking model which describes the learning process and presents specific procedures to facilitate specific learning types and 6 instructional planning models such as Gagne's Instructional Event Design that can help the faculty member through the process of course and lesson planning Three appendixes provide teaching resource lists and sample questions using classification systems Contains approximately 240 references MDM A Collection of Papers on Self-study and Institutional Improvement, 2004 Higher Learning Commission. Meeting, 2004 Experiential Learning in Higher Education Jeffrey A. Cantor, 1997 This report reviews the literature and research on the use of experiential learning in higher education focusing on classroom community linkages It defines experiential learning and reviews the current employment of experiential learning in higher education An introductory section explains the politics and policy issues of experiential learning at the higher education level and describes predominant forms of experiential education current levels of participation a conceptual framework and administrative issues and concerns The next two sections discuss the issues in programs using experiential learning in the arts and humanities social sciences health care social work science and engineering business education and technology programs The fourth section focuses on experiential learning in the context of service learning with emphasis on the linking of theory and practice and cross disciplinary pedagogical and instructional issues The fifth section reviews cooperative education initiatives which link classroom and community for benefits for faculty community students and businesses The final section provides a synthesis of successful practices This section stresses the importance of a systematic approach to designing experiential learning activities program administration and evaluation Contains approximately 120 references MDM Universities As If Students Mattered John Scanzoni,2005-06-22 Universities As If Students Mattered is centered around the goal of coaching college students to become active self directed learners whose obligation to serve society is integral to their active learning At the same time the innovations in this book would focus the attention energy and considerable talents of professors graduate students and post docs on some potential ways and means of addressing urgent social issues contributing to a more thorough and comprehensive understanding of the social world The Innovative Campus Joy Rosenzweig Kliever,1999 This 2003 book focuses on species within the genus Homo to investigate the evolutionary origins of characteristic human patterns Academic Freedom in American Higher Education Robert K. Poch,1993-05-12 Presents the popular conceptions and historical progress of academic freedom Examines AAUP s 1940 Statement of Academic Freedom and discusses its legal aspects Addresses issues on artistic expression academic freedom in church related colleges and universities and political correctness Chicanos in Higher Education Adalberto Aguirre, Jr.,Martinez O. Ruben,1993-04-14 This monograph looks at Chicano participation in higher education to date and pressing issues for increased participation in the 21st century An exploration of how Chicanos relate generally to the national education system cites low academic achievement which contributes to relative social and cultural isolation Isolation coupled with educational tracking places the population at risk for negative educational and economic outcomes Looking at Chicanos and higher education the monograph notes slow improvement in part due to small numbers of students pursuing postsecondary education This section also recalls the history of Chicano participation beginning in the 1850s in California and including the recent construction of El Plan de Santa Barbara Examination of the context for participation notes federal government programs and legislation which have facilitated entry for Chicanos and also reinforced a subordinate status A section on Chicano representation in higher education finds that faculty though persons of extraordinary accomplishment are marginalized in the academic community Looking ahead the monograph argues that Chicanos must use educational attainment for social change and acquiring influence for participation in policy making arenas Contains over 300 references JB Student Learning Outside the Classroom George D. Kuh,Katie Branch Douglas,Jon P. Lund,Jackie Ramin-Gyurnek,1994 Emphasis on holistic view of learning student development Internationalizing the Private Liberal Arts College Brenda J. Ellingboe,1999 Successful Faculty Development and Evaluation John P. Murray,1997 This report relates to the concept of teaching portfolios It discusses the importance of accounting for institutional culture when introducing the concept of teaching portfolios Includes information on how the department chair can help to improve teaching Chaos Theory & Higher Education Marc Cutright,2001 The challenges of leadership policy formation and strategic planning in higher education are difficult under the best of circumstances Our rapid pace of change and shifting societal expectations of higher education sharpen these challenges The authors of this anthology institutional leaders and academics from the United States Canada and Great Britain consider metaphors of chaos theory that may have not only descriptive utility but prescriptive power in the enhancement of these duties and opportunities

Empowering the Faculty Gaye Luna, Deborah L. Cullen, 1995 Wise Moves in Hard Times David W. Leslie, E.K. Fretwell (jr.), 1996-01-19 Leslie and Fretwell have produced as good a book as I have seen in the timely field of higher education's response to its pervasive long range financial dilemmas They bring together the message of urgency and the call for tough decisions with the wisdom of opportunism incrementalism and an appreciation of the uniqueness of the academy Their strategic advice applicable to a very wide range of institutions and based on a good and diverse set of real experiences avoids the sometimes patronizing naivete that management experts so often bring to the table D Bruce Johnstone university professor and former chancellor State University of New York Jesuit Education 21 Martin R. Tripole, 2000

Redesigning Higher Education Lion F. Gardiner, 1994-11-13 This monograph reviews empirical studies on various aspects of higher education relating to the effectiveness of instruction in regard to four areas curriculum instruction campus psychological climate and academic advising After an introduction the first section describes the development of critical skills how these skills develop and the conditions believed necessary to produce them The following four sections examine the four core areas central to student development and the contribution research suggests they now make to the development 1 curriculum methods the intellectual climate of the classroom students involvement effects of the curriculum 2 instruction classroom tests and grades 3 the campus climate integration into the campus community commuter and part time students students involvement with faculty and minority group members and 4 academic advising developmental advising the necessity for training in advising and evaluation recognition and reward of advising The next three sections describe opportunities for dramatic gains in students learning examining evidence about the relative capacity of students to learn at a very high level describing seven specific changes which can improve students learning and addressing issues of leadership management and professional development The final section presents a vision and a challenge to develop a new kind of community on campus Contains approximately 650 references DB
