Creating and Consuming Culture in North-East England, 1660-1830 Helen Berry,Jeremy Gregory,2019-07-16

Historians of the long eighteenth century have recently recognised that this period is central both to the history of cultural production and consumption and to the history of national and regional identity Yet no book has as yet directly engaged with these two areas of interest at the same time By uniting interest in the history of culture with the history of regional identity Creating and Consuming Culture in North East England 1660 1830 is of crucial importance to a wide range of historians and intervenes in a number of highly important historical and conceptual debates in a timely and provocative way The book makes a substantial contribution to eighteenth century studies Not only do these essays demonstrate that in thinking about cultural production and consumption in the eighteenth century there are important continuities as well as changes that need to be considered but also they complicate the commonplace assumption of metropolitan led cultural change and cultural innovation Rather than the usual model of centre periphery diffusion a number of contributions show that cultural change in the provinces was happening at the same time as in or in some cases even before London The essays also indicate the complex relationship between cultural consumption and social status with some cultural forms being more inclusive than others

The Eighteenth Century Kevin L. Cope,Robert C. Leitz,2007-09

Art Treasures in the North Anne

French,2009 The Grand Tour of the 18th century was a cultural phenomenon reflecting the increasing importance the British aristocracy and gentry attached to the experience of Italy as a desirable part of their education This book and catalogue focuses on the Grand Tours made from the North of England and presents the art on display at the Laing Art Gallery

Newcastle upon Tyne 13th November 1999 to 5th March 2000 Gender, Taste, and Material Culture in Britain and North

America, 1700-1830 John Styles,Amanda Vickery,2006 Between 1700 and 1830 men and women in the English speaking territories framing the Atlantic gained unprecedented access to material things The British Atlantic was an empire of goods held together not just by political authority and a common language but by a shared material culture nourished by constant flows of commodities Diets expanded to include exotic luxuries such as tea and sugar the fruits of mercantile and colonial expansion Homes were furnished with novel goods like clocks and earthenware teapots the products of British industrial ingenuity This groundbreaking book compares these developments in Britain and North America bringing together a multi disciplinary group of scholars to consider basic questions about women men and objects in these regions In asking who did the shopping how things were used and why they became the subject of political dispute the essays show the profound significance of everyday objects in the eighteenth century Atlantic world

Growing Up in England Anthony

Fletcher,2008-06-10 Drawing on testimony from contemporary letters and diaries this book revises previous understandings of parenting and what it was like to grow up in England in the period between 1600 and 1914 One of the facets explored by the author is different experiences of men and boys women and girls

Industrial Enlightenment Peter Jones,2008 This book uses a case study to explore the contribution which scientific knowledge made to the growth trajectory of England in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries The aim is not to re tell the story of the Industrial Revolution but to reconstruct its preliminary stage which is here labelled the Industrial Enlightenment

American Book Publishing Record ,2006 2005 Lectures ,2006 A collection of 12 lectures delivered at the British Academy in 2005 This work features topics that range from archaeological perspectives on the essence of being human to discussions of the UK s Monetary Policy Committee and the role of judges

International Bibliography of Book Reviews of Scholarly Literature Chiefly in the Fields of Arts and Humanities and the Social Sciences ,2005 People, Landscape and Alternative Agriculture

Joan Thirsk,2004 Joan Thirsk is unquestionably the leading English agricultural historian of her generation In a writing career extending over half a century she has made an individual and influential contribution to rural history and our understanding of the economic history of early modern England As she enters her ninth decade and her sixth decade of writing and publication her capacity to lead her colleagues into new areas of research is undiminished This volume arises from a conference held in September 2002 to celebrate Joan s eightieth birthday It addresses a number of characteristic Thirsk preoccupations a concern for people and their lives with landscape region and peculiarity and a fascination with alternative agriculture The contributors are drawn from amongst Joan s former students and friends

A Subject for Taste Jeremy Black,2005 In the eighteenth century England became the richest and most powerful country in the world This book is a portrait of English culture of the time dealing with leading writers from Swift and Pope to Dr Johnson and Sheridan with artists from Hogarth to Reynolds with architecture including the gardens landscaped by Capability Brown and with popular ballads political doggerel pornographic verse and satirical cartoons The author looks at both the wealth of cultural activity and at the patronage of and market for books art architecture music and consumer goods book jacket

Forthcoming Books

Rose Army,2003

Northumbria Robert Colls,2007 The North East is probably England s most distinctive region A place of strong character with a very special sense of its past it is as William Hutchinson remarked in 1778 truly historical ground This is a book about both the ancient Anglian kingdom of Northumbria which stretched from the Humber to the Scottish border and the ways in which the idea of being a Northumbrian or a northerner or someone from the North East persisted in the area long after the early English kingdom had fallen It examines not only the history of the region but also the successive waves of identity that that history has bestowed over a very long period of time Successful nations write about themselves in these terms so why not regions Northumbria existed before England began but is still with us in name and in the way we think about ourselves A series of sections entitled Christian Kingdom Borderland and Coalfield New Northumbria Cultural Region and Northumbrian Island explore the region on the grand scale from the very beginning and bring a sharp sense of history to bear on the various threads that have influenced the making of modern regional identity The book is a work of exceptional scholarship Never before have so many acclaimed historians addressed together the issues which have affected this special region Clearly written and rich in ideas chapters explore the physical origins of Northumbria and consider just how the pressing political and military claims of adjoining states shaped and tempered it There are further chapters on art music mythology dialect history economy poetry politics religion antiquarianism literature and settlement They show how Northumbrians have lived and died and looked forward and back and these accounts of the North East s past will surely help in the shaping of its future
