Ekane,2016-09-20 Esteem is a simple word It is worth and value that we apply to people places and situations It is the amount of respect we assess We have esteem for our world leaders We have esteem for places like church and synagogue We have esteem for an exemplary performance whether it is in sports acting or simply doing the right thing But the most important place we need to apply esteem is within ourselves We must maintain our self esteem in order to place value on ourselves as a worthy individual in the world Self esteem can affect every single part of our lives If that esteem is low our lives will be dull and gray Elevating esteem for ourselves could very well be the key to happiness in life Most people s feelings and thoughts about themselves fluctuate somewhat based on their daily experiences The grade you get on an exam how your friends treat you ups and downs in a romantic relationship all can have a temporary impact on your well being Your own self esteem however is something more fundamental than the normal ups and downs associated with situational changes For people with good basic self esteem normal ups and downs may lead to temporary fluctuations in how they feel about themselves but only to a limited extent In contrast for people with poor basic self esteem these ups and downs may make all the difference in the world People with poor self esteem often rely on how they are doing in the present to determine how they feel about themselves They need positive external experiences to counteract the negative feelings and thoughts that constantly plague them Even then the good feeling from a good grade etc can be temporary Healthy self esteem is based on our ability to assess ourselves accurately know ourselves and still be able to accept and to value ourselves unconditionally

You will discover:

- How to build self-confidence and high self-esteem without becoming arrogant.
- How to build self-confidence no matter who is around.
- How to build self-confidence when you're known as a quiet person.
- How to build self-confidence if you're insecure.
- And Much More.

Excerpt Chapter 2: When you get to know yourself, you will be able to calculate how you will react to different situations and what specifically you need to improve upon. Everyone has their limitations, and having a clear idea of your own will allow you to set realistic goals without underestimating your potential. The best way to learn a little more about yourself is to gauge your reactions to everyday situations. Choose a few experiences that generally tend to make you feel nervous and unsure of yourself. This can mean approaching someone new in a public place, talking on the phone, making a presentation at school or at work, or going to a party where you know few of the guests. On a scale of 1 to 10, rate how unsure you have felt in these situations in the past. Then you will need to find out what has been holding you back. Perhaps you have always known that talking to someone of authority makes you feel insecure. You might agree with everything they say and prohibit yourself from speaking up. Your fear of being scolded or criticized may be holding you back. You may just want to feel accepted.

Chase,1983-12 How To Build Self-Confidence Leonard Henry,2019-09-30 In this book we will look at self esteem and self confidence and the difference between these two terminologies After you have read this book you should have a much clearer understanding of these two terms and how they can transform your life overall for greater achievements Self esteem and self confidence are frequently used interchangeably when we speak of how we feel about ourselves These two terms are very similar but they have different concepts It is very important to understand these two terms when seeking to improve your overall self belief or self worth In this book we will look at what these two terms are and dive deeper into ways we can improve our self esteem which in turn will build our self confidence WHAT CAN WE SAY ABOUT SELF ESTEEM Self esteem is basically how you feel about yourself in general Self esteem is developed from life experiences and situations you have encountered that have fashioned the way you view yourself On the other hand Self confidence is how you feel about your capabilities and can transition from situation to situation An individual might have healthy self esteem but his self confidence could be low as it relates to him being able to master Mathematics as a subject at high school or college When you love yourself your self esteem improves which makes you more confident When you are confident in areas of your life you begin to increase your overall sense of self esteem It is possible for you to work on both self esteem and self confidence at the same time Self esteem like happiness is a state of mind It can make you feel happy jovial and confident It can also make you feel worthless unwanted and weak Self esteem can best be compared to a powerful car engine When the engine is fully tuned the individual feels confident and raring to go when the engine needs tuning the individual feels low and wants to throw in the towel Obviously individuals with low self esteem cannot be expected to do well in life They will approach every issue with a lack of confidence even though they may be fully capable of doing a job That is why self belief is considered the bedrock of self esteem It gives an individual the extra confidence that makes all the difference between an achiever and a loser So how do you inculcate a sense of self belief in yourself You will be making a big mistake if you start seeing yourself as the most important man or woman in your field This cannot be called self belief or self esteem Instead it is conceit and as everyone knows conceit is a dangerous quality It generates false confidence which often becomes a source of woes

WHAT CAN WE SAY ABOUT SELF CONFIDENCE To be able to achieve a goal you need skills discipline determination capability and self confidence Self confidence comes from having the right kind of skills and clarity of goals to be achieved The clearer the goal the better the focus of mind and self confidence Nothing great was ever achieved by people who lacked confidence A capable body and mind will not function to their greatest potential if not backed by self confidence Self confidence is the pivot on which all the creative and analytical abilities of the mind rest on Low self confidence can impair the functioning of both the body and mind resulting in failure Self confidence is the measure of one's collective ability to march right ahead to achieve a goal Self confidence has a way of being visible You can tell by observing the very manner of a person walking communicating working socializing as to whether he is confident or not The very first handshake with a person will tell her level of self confidence As you read through the Chapters of this book you will have sufficient information on how to build your self esteem and build your self confidence
