Karin Nielsen-Saines

Building The Ecological City:

Building the Ecological City R R White, 2002-02-22 Building the Ecological City puts forward solutions to the question how can we build cities that provide an acceptable standard of living for their inhabitants without depleting the ecosystems and bio geochemical cycles on which they depend The book suggests and examines the concept of urban metabolism which characterizes the city as a set of interlinked systems of physical flows linking air land and water A series of chapters looks at the production and management of waste energy use and air emissions water supply and management urban land use and air quality issues Within the broader context of climate change the book then considers a range of practical strategies for restoring the health of urban ecosystems from the remediation of brownfield land to improving air quality and making better use of water resources

China's Eco-city Construction Jingyuan Li, Tongjin Yang, 2015-11-04 This book introduces the concept of Eco civilization highlights the construction and development of eco cities in China and assesses the achievements and shortcomings of China's eco city construction projects As both China and Western countries face an impending ecological crisis responding to that crisis is a common challenge for all human beings There is an overwhelming consensus among Chinese scholars that in order to successfully address the ecological crisis successfully we must establish an eco civilization and one important step toward accomplishing that goal is to plan and construct eco cities

Eco-city Planning Tai-Chee Wong, Belinda Yuen, 2011-05-02 Eco city planning is a key element of urban land use planning in perspective and of ongoing debate of environmental urban sustainable development with a spatial and practical dimension The conceptual basis of ecological planning is that we can no longer afford to be merely human centred in approach Instead the interdependency of human and non human species has forced us to appreciate the rights and intrinsic values of non human species in our pursuit for a sustainable ecosystem This volume has as approach an emphasis on environmental planning policies whereby for example energy saving anti pollution measures use of non car modes construction of green buildings safeguarding of nature and natural habitats in urban areas and use of more renewable resources are promotional norms Their aims and leading outcome serve to protect the Earth from adverse effects of global warming and different sources of pollution threatening the quality of life of human societies

EcoCities Richard Register, 2006-04-01 Most of the world's population now lives in cities So if we are to address the problems of environmental deterioration and peak oil adequately the city has to be a major focus of attention EcoCities is about re building cities and towns based on ecological principles for the long term sustainability cultural vitality and health of the Earth's biosphere Unique in the literature is the book's insight that the form of the city really matters and that it is within our ability to change it and crucial that we do Further that the ecocity within its bioregion is comprehensible and do able and can produce a healthy and potentially happy future EcoCities describes the place of the city in evolution nature and history It pays special attention to the key question of accessibility and transportation and outlines design principles for the ecocity The reader is encouraged to plunge in to its economics and politics the kinds of businesses planning and leadership required The book then outlines the tools by which a gradual transition to the ecocity could be accomplished Throughout this new edition is generously illustrated with the author's own inspired visions of what such rebuilt cities might actually look like

Constructing Utopias Zhongjie Lin, Benjamin Lin
Presidential Professor Weitzman School of Design Zhongjie Lin, 2025-06-16

Amid its groundbreaking political reforms and largest mass migration ever seen in human history China created over 3 800 new towns to accommodate its burgeoning urban population and sustain economic growth Constructing Utopias examines four decades of Chinese urbanization focusing on a series of model new towns that showcase innovative planning design technologies policies and China's broader vision for a modern urban nation These case studies highlight fundamental issues in new town development including economic vitality cultural identity environmental sustainability and socio-spatial dynamics and illuminate the complex interplay between space production and social transformation within the context of neoliberalism and globalization

Ecological City Building Rezwana Rafiq, Mahmudur Rahman Khan, 2011-01

Over last few decades human interruption on nature has become so astonishing and abrupt that the impacts inconveniently remind the picture of a doomed city which was once the heart of civilization to whom who really care about But this horrible image can be scratched out by avoiding energy dominating development practices and can be converted to a divine living system The idea of ecocity is to convey present development practice to a healthier future It is like a dream that might be possible in reality where someone will wake up from bed hearing the twitter of birds and not by the horn of vehicles and cool air for air conditioning he will be able to reach his working place with pleasant even in a walking distance from his house and without facing serious congestion while it is far away he will find it more attractive to walk than to use vehicles where he will find someone reading news paper in a natural air conditioned system sitting under a tree on a bench besides pedestrian path and so on An attempt has been taken to find out the way of fulfilling the dream in reality some basic needs of eco-friendly city building and how they could be attained are explored in this book

The Vertical City K. Al-Kodmany, 2018-06-25

Each century has its own unique approach toward addressing the problem of high density and the 21st century is no exception As cities try to cope with rapid population growth adding 2.5 billion dwellers by 2050 and grapple with destructive sprawl politicians planners and architects have become increasingly interested in the vertical city paradigm Unfortunately cities all over the world are grossly unprepared for integrating tall buildings as these buildings may aggravate multidimensional sustainability challenges resulting in a vertical sprawl that could have worse consequences than horizontal sprawl By using extensive data and numerous illustrations this book provides a comprehensive guide to the successful and sustainable integration of tall buildings into cities A new crop of skyscrapers that employ passive design strategies green technologies energy saving systems and innovative renewable energy offers significant architectural improvements At the urban scale the book argues that planners must integrate tall buildings with efficient mass transit walkable neighbourhoods cycling networks vibrant mixed use activities iconic transit stations attractive plazas well landscaped streets spacious parks and engaging public art Particularly it proposes the Tall Building and Transit Oriented Development TB TOD model as one of the sustainable options for large cities going forward Building on the work of leaders in the fields of ecological and sustainable design this book will open readers eyes to a wider range of possibilities for utilizing green resilient smart and sustainable features in architecture and urban planning projects The 20 chapters offer comprehensive reading for all those interested in the planning design and construction of sustainable cities

From Eco-Cities to Sustainable City-Regions Ernest J. Yanarella, Richard S. Levine, 2020-05-29 A political scientist and an urban architect explore China's odyssey to become an ecological civilization and transform its massive unsustainable urbanization process into one that creates hundreds of eco cities The resulting From Eco Cities to Sustainable City Regions is the first book length study combining analysis of politics and power urban design and planning issues derived from the co authors interdisciplinary research and on site fieldwork from their political science and architectural area specialties
