Borneo Rainforest:

Borneo Rain Forest Mattias Klum, 1998 Photographer Mattias Klum takes us into the soul of the Borneo rainforest. Patiently waiting behind blinds shooting from platforms high in the trees or skimming above the forest canopy in a hot air balloon Klum has captured the mystery beauty and complexity of Borneo's renowned but virtually impassable Danum Valley. He mounted the Borneo expedition to photograph the rainforest as it really is filled with darkness and shadows shot through with streaks of light. Teeming with life the rainforest promises unexpected encounters with creatures large and small as its jungle of trees and undergrowth reach for the sky in infinite shades of green. Klum's keen lens captures it all. From a bizarre bearded pig to the increasingly rare Low's pitcher plant from the king cobra to the delicate damselfly Borneo Rainforest shows us an ancient complex irreplaceable ecosystem. Passionate descriptions and a journal of the expedition's events round out this homage to an extraordinary place. Penan Wade Davis, Thom Henley, Western Canada Wilderness Committee, 1990

Writing the South Seas Brian C. Bernard, 2016-01-01 Postcolonial literature about the South Seas or Nanyang examines the history of Chinese migration localization and interethnic exchange in Southeast Asia where Sinophone settler cultures evolved independently by adapting to their New World and mingling with native cultures. Writing the South Seas explains why Nanyang encounters neglected by most literary histories should be considered crucial to the national literatures of China and Southeast Asia.
