Designing For Aging Patterns Of Use:

Designing for Aging Sandra C. Howell, 1980 This book provides guidelines for the design process based upon actual tenant behaviors and uses of space in housing for older people It sets forth new or neglected issues which should concern program planners housing developers and designers with regard to the impact and future marketability of these special purpose settings A product of a five year HEW study which won the 1979 Progressive Architecture Award Competition in architectural research this book contains the behavioral evidence on which alternative design solutions ought to be decided Designing for Aging describes and interprets the responses of a large national sample of residents living in apartment buildings across the United States which conform to Federal Minimum Property Standards In addition an in depth analysis of carefully selected specific spaces and their use by tenants was conducted in Cambridge Massachusetts sites Hundreds of hours of research time were spent in on site observations and interviews with older inhabitants of government subsidized housing The techniques used to collect and analyze data are made explicit throughout the book for the benefit of professional readers and also in an attempt to demystify the research process and to open it to critical review Howell notes the most important point that this material should convey is that older people need variations in the space in which they live She argues that this necessitates not so much additional square footage as more careful spatial definition on the part of designers

Population Victor Regnier, 2018-08-06 Longer lifespans and the needs of the oldest old are challenging the senior living industry to find bold and compassionate solutions to combine programs and services with housing Victor Regnier s latest research provides a thoughtful and insightful roadmap that arrays new ways of thinking from small scale settings to community based options International case studies offer possible solutions with the best thinking from around the globe all with Vic s unique perspective of extracting themes and concepts that are broadly applicable and essential to addressing the needs of those that live on life s fragile edge David Hoglund FAIA Supporting the independence of the oldest old is a tough problem Victor Regnier addresses in his latest book on aging and housing Like previous work Victor relies on the best practices of northern Europeans to outline a three prong approach First providing extremely comprehensive home care services in an apartment for life setting Second reforming the conventional nursing home by exploring small group style accommodations Third combining new technology with community based services to age in place Case studies document the experiences of others in making these programs work here and abroad The magnitude of the 90 and 100 population increases in the next 50 years make it clear how important it is to address this concern today Edward Steinfeld Darch The movement of health care from the institution to the home is a theme that Regnier identifies as one of the most important lessons in rethinking the issue of how to support the ever growing and increasingly aged older population here and abroad He examines simple but profound approaches we can take in making long term care a more humane proposition Familiar themes like humanizing technology and optimizing the impact of the natural environment are brought together with clear policy thinking about what we need to do The timing is good because the impact of this growing segment of society will have major repercussions on health care for the next 50 70 years Stephan Verderber Ph D A comprehensive guide to designing housing for the world s aging population The dilemma of helping older people maintain their independence through better housing with services is growing This book presents innovative solutions for those who create and provide housing for the world s increasingly longer living population By focusing on three specific housing and service arrangements it offers alternatives that provide greater freedom of choice than the current living arrangements that exist today It presents selected examples of housing and service solutions from the US Sweden Denmark and the Netherlands to stimulate thinking about the possibilities of community based service models Housing Design for an Increasingly Older Population looks at a trio of options for housing the oldest old the Dutch Apartment Condo for Life Model AFL decentralized Small Green Houses and the provision of enhanced personal and health care for people who want to stay in their own home It offers unique and eye opening chapters covering what older people want what age changes affect independence demographics and living arrangements how long term care is defined concepts and objectives for housing the frail care giving and management practices that avoid an institutional lifestyle innovative case studies programs that encourage staying at home with service assistance therapeutic use of outdoor spaces how technology will help people stay independent and more Based on the author s numerous conversations with other experts as well as his examinations of high quality settings from Northern Europe and the US Building case study examples showcase innovative and compassionate solutions In depth coverage of three major systems that work Examines successful programs such as PACE Friendly Cities NORC and the Village to Village Network to demonstrate the progress made in helping older frail people stay in their own homes for as long as possible Housing Design for an Increasingly Older Population Redefining Assisted Living for the Mentally and Physically Frail is an important book for those who create design and manage assisted living and skilled nursing facilities as well as for those who set policies regarding health and personal care for our world s aging society Housing and Planning References ,1981

Design for Assisted Living Victor Regnier,2003-02-28 Destined to become the defining work on the subject this timely reference addresses the single fastest growing segment of the senior living industry assisted living for those who are unable to live independently but who do not need intensive nursing home care meals housekeeping or twenty four hour access to medical assistance Victor Regnier s visually rich guide includes dozens of design solutions from successful assisted living facilities along with fifteen case studies from the U S and Europe The book also covers recent developments in the industry including major changes in financing growth of dementia and interest in aging in place All in all this is the most comprehensive guide to assisted living design that you ll find in any single volume

Site Planning and Design for the Elderly Diane Y. Carstens,1993-02-15 Design for the elderly is at the forefront of architectural topics today Yet while much has been written about the design of indoor spaces little work has been done on planning outdoor spaces to accommodate the needs of the elderly Site Planning and Design for the Elderly specifically addresses this issue drawing from a large body of original research current knowledge and theory to provide the background knowledge and specific information necessary for informed decision making throughout the site planning and design process More than just a reference on accessibility standards this volume offers key insights into the needs and concerns of older people in the built environment and presents guidelines and alternatives for responsive site planning and design Organized in a clear step by step format for easy reference issues and specific guidelines are provided for each stage of the planning and design process within the context of housing for older people Moreover architects landscape architects urban designers developers and students will find the topics covered applicable to other settings where older people ore a part of the user profile such as downtown renewal hospital and park planning projects Numerous illustrations and case studies highlight major points throughout the text The first sections of this volume provide valuable background information on housing options available to seniors and outline design implications of the social and physiological changes associated with advancing age Critical design and management issues are discussed objectives are outlined and implementation strategies are developed including methods for promoting wayfinding enhancing personalization and maximizing opportunities for social interaction The body of this volume provides specific guidelines for each stage of development Site planning areas addressed include site selection the layout of housing units including relationships between facilities offering different levels of care recreational amenities and circulation systems Detailed guidelines for the location spatial configuration detailing and amenities of major site components and recreational facilities are also provided Entryways parking patios rooftop developments and gardening centers are among the specific areas covered A brief outline of the major issues affecting use of each site component is particularly useful for making decisions regarding facility provision and for prioritizing development alternatives Critical detailing and amenity specifications are pinpointed and thoroughly described Paving materials signage lighting site furniture and pedestrian street crossings are among those elements examined A concise overview in tabular form of the major guidelines presented throughout closes this practical volume It is possible to design a site that will not only enhance the lives of elderly residents but will be cost effective and highly marketable as well Site Planning and Design for the Elderly provides practical solutions to the problems of exterior design for one of the fastest growing segments of the U S population today
