Desert Solitaire:

Desert Solitaire Edward Abbey, 1985-01-12 Rough tough combative a passionately felt deeply poetic book Edwin Way Teale The New York Times Book Review This is not primarily a book about the desert writes Edward Abbey in his introduction In recording my impressions of the natural scene I have striven above all for accuracy since I believe that there is a kind of poetry even a kind of truth in simple fact But the desert is a vast world an oceanic world as deep in its way and complex and various as the sea Language makes a mighty loose net with which to go fishing for simple facts when facts are infinite If a man knew enough he could write a whole book about the juniper tree Not juniper trees in general but that one particular juniper tree which grows from a ledge of naked sandstone near the old entrance to Arches National Monument What I have tried to do then is something a bit different Since you cannot get the desert into a book any more than a fisherman can haul up the sea with his nets I have tried to create a world of words in which the desert figures more as medium than as material Not imitation but evocation has been the goal

Encyclopedia of the Environment in American Literature Geoff Hamilton,Brian Jones,2014-01-10 This encyclopedia introduces readers to American poetry fiction and nonfiction with a focus on the environment broadly defined as humanity's natural surroundings from the discovery of America through the present. The work includes biographical and literary entries on material from early explorers and colonists such as Columbus, Bartolome de Las Casas and Thomas Harriot. Native American creation myths, canonical 18th and 19th century works of Jefferson, Emerson, Thoreau, Whitman, Hawthorne, Twain, Dickinson and others to more recent figures such as Jack London, Ernest Hemingway, Norman Mailer, Stanley Cavell, Rachel Carson, Jon Krakauer and Al Gore. It is meant to provide a synoptic appreciation of how the very concept of the environment has changed over the past five centuries, offering both a general introduction to the topic and a valuable resource for high school and university courses focused on environmental issues.

Arizona and the West, 1983 Hunger for the Wild Michael L. Johnson, 2007. Americans have had an enduring yet ambivalent obsession with the West as both a place and a state of mind. Michael L. Johnson considers how that obsession originated, how it has determined attitudes toward and activities in the West, and how it has changed over the centuries.

The Mythic West in Twentieth-century America Robert G. Athearn, 1986. Briefly describes life in the West and discusses the ephemeral nature of the region, western towns, the tourist industry, agriculture, fiction, and the ecology movement.

Projecting Paranoia Ray Pratt, 2001. A wide-ranging and idiosyncratic look at sixty years of politics and film that uncovers how American movies have mirrored and even challenged anxieties and paranoid perceptions embedded in American society since the start of the Cold War. The first book to take a sweeping look at 60 years of film and analyze them thematically. Big Sky Rivers Robert Kelley Schneiders, 2003. To frame his story, Schneiders goes back to the nineteenth-century journals of fur traders and settlers and in the record of flora, fauna, floods, and human activity he finds evidence of rapid and disruptive change. Bison once had the greatest influence on the land, and Schneiders depicts an original bison and Indian trail networks on which were overlaid the first forts and towns, and then the railroads, highways, and reservoirs that reconfigured the region forever. Islands Under Siege John Carter Freemuth, 1991. A study of threats to national parks: noise and water pollution, smog, industrial spills, and acid rain from a political perspective. The focus is on two cases: the proposed mining of the tar sands of south central Utah near Canyonlands National Park and poor air quality in several western parks caused by pollution. The French Tragi-comedy Henry Carrington Lancaster, 1907. Devil's Bargains Hal Rothman, 1998. The West is popularly perceived as America's last outpost of unfettered opportunity, but twentieth-century corporate tourism has transformed it into America's land of opportunism. From Sun Valley to Santa Fe, towns throughout the West have been turned over to outsiders and not just to those who visit and move on, but to those who stay and control. Although tourism has been a blessing for many, bringing economic and cultural prosperity to communities without obvious means of support or allowing towns on the brink of extinction to renew themselves, the costs on more intangible levels may be said to outweigh the benefits and be a devil's bargain in the making. Hal Rothman examines the effect of twentieth-century tourism on the West and exposes that industry's darker side He tells how tourism evolved from Grand Canyon rail trips to Sun Valley ski weekends and Disneyland vacations and how the post World War II boom in air travel and luxury hotels capitalized on a surge in discretionary income for many Americans combined with newfound leisure time From major destinations like Las Vegas to revitalized towns like Aspen and Moab Rothman reveals how the introduction of tourism into a community may seem innocuous but residents gradually realize as they seek to preserve the authenticity of their communities that decision making power has subtly shifted from the community itself to the newly arrived corporate financiers And because tourism often results in a redistribution of wealth and power to outsiders observes Rothman it represents a new form of colonialism for the region By depicting the nature of tourism in the American West through true stories of places and individuals that have felt its grasp Rothman doesn't just document the effects of tourism but provides us with an enlightened explanation of the shape these changes take Deftly balancing historical perspective with an eye for what's happening in the region right now his book sets new standards for the study of tourism and is one that no citizen of the West whose life is touched by that industry can afford to ignore A
