Comparative Photography:

Comparative Photography, 1979      Photography and Place Donna West Brett, 2015-12-07 As a recording device photography plays a unique role in how we remember places and events that happened there This includes recording events as they happen or recording places where something occurred before the photograph was taken commonly referred to as aftermath photography This book presents a theoretical and historical analysis of German photography of place after 1945 It analyses how major historical ruptures in twentieth century Germany and associated places of trauma memory and history affected the visual field and the circumstances of looking These ruptures are used to generate a new reading of postwar German photography of place The analysis includes original research on world renowned German photographers such as Thomas Struth Thomas Demand Michael Schmidt Boris Becker and Thomas Ruff as well as photographers largely unknown in the Anglophone world      Selected Papers on Photogeology and Photo Interpretation United States. Klingberg, Charles Elworth, Sidney Epstein, 1969 A study was made to investigate the effects of selected variations in procedure methods of comparing current with prior imagery cover familiarity of the interpreter with the area and time allowed for interpretation on the completeness and accuracy with which change in the status of targets is detected Under the 5 minute time limit the computer comparison of independent interpretations of current and prior photo coverage resulted in more complete change detection than did the other methods employed and about the same degree of accuracy The advantage of computer comparison was less marked under the 15 minute time limit Providing the interpreter with overlay plus a written report on the prior imagery was the least effective of the comparison methods investigated Without the actual imagery from the earlier mission the interpreter has no way of correcting errors in the earlier interpretation The method also was time consuming Interpreter familiarity with the terrain through preparation of reports on the prior imagery resulted in more complete and more accurate change detection under the 5 minute time limit Under the 15 minute time limit the advantage was negligible      The Unfinished Tomb of Darius III: Structure, Reliefs and Environs Avi Bachenheimer, 2017-07-08 The author has provided a collection of reports primarily concerned with geographical stylistic

Juxtaposition Anna Schum-Houck,2020-10-19 This is a collection of photographs comparing various adventures throughout my life I have had numerous opportunities to be wanderlust and experience the world around me This photo book compares my trip to the Southwest New Mexico Colorado Utah and Arizona with the RIT College of Art and Design Honors Program to various places I have been throughout my life including my first trips to the Southwest my travels in Europe and my home in Rochester New York I wanted to highlight my travel endeavors by juxtaposing two photos side by side There are similarities and differences in each photograph some of them are so similar but taken at different times or even different places others are less similar but still share commonalities We are really just a small part of the big universe experiencing the world around us

Biological Modernism Carl Gelderloos,2019-12-15 Honorable Mention for the DAAD GSA Book Prize for the Best Book in Germanistik or Cultural Studies Biological Modernism identifies an intellectual current in the Weimar Republic that drew on biology organicism vitalism and other discourses associated with living nature in order to redefine the human being for a modern technological age Contrary to the assumption that any turn toward the organic indicated a reactionary flight from modernity or a longing for wholeness Carl Gelderloos shows that biology and other discourses of living nature offered a nuanced way of theorizing modernity rather than fleeing from it Organic life instead of representing a stabilizing sense of wholeness by the 1920s had become a scientific philosophical and disciplinary problem In their work figures such as Alfred D blin Ernst J nger Helmuth Plessner and August Sander interrogated the relationships between technology nature and the human and radically reconsidered the relationship between the disciplines as well as the epistemological and political consequences for defining the human being Biological Modernism will be of interest to scholars of German literature and culture literary modernism photography philosophical anthropology twentieth century intellectual history the politics of culture and the history of science
