Environmental Security and Environmental Management: The Role of Risk Assessment Benoit Morel, Igor

Linkov, 2007-05-22 The concept of environmental security has emerged as one basis for understanding international conflicts This phrase can mean a variety of things It can signify security issues stemming from environmental concerns or conflicting needs or it can mean that the environment is treated as a resource for the long term and the question is what should be done today to preserve the quality of the environment in the future In the same way that energy security is about ensuring access to energy for the long run it can also mean that pressing environmental concerns create a situation where different countries and communities are forced to collaboratively design a unified response even if cooperation is not generally in the logic of their relations Over the last several years the authors of this book and their colleagues have tried to demonstrate the power of risk assessment and decision analysis as valuable tools that decision makers should use for a broad range of environmental problems including environmental security Risk analysis is almost more a state of mind or a way of looking at problems than it is a kind of algorithm or a set of recipes It projects a kind of rationality on problems and forces a certain degree of quantitative rigor as opposed to the all too common tendency of making environmental recommendations based on anecdotal evidence

Strategic Management of Marine Ecosystems Eugene Levner, Igor Linkov, Jean-Marie Proth, 2006-05-06 The demand for advanced management methods and tools for marine ecosystems is increasing worldwide Today many marine ecosystems are significantly affected by disastrous pollution from industrial agricultural municipal transportational and other anthropogenic sources The issues of environmental integrity are especially acute in the Mediterranean and Red Sea basins the cradle of modern civilization The drying of the Dead Sea is one of the most vivid examples of environmental disintegration with severe negative consequences on the ecology industry and wildlife in the area Strategic management and coordination of international remedial and restoration efforts is required to improve environmental conditions of marine ecosystems in the Middle East as well as in other areas The NATO Advanced Study Institute ASI held in Nice in October 2003 was designed to 1 provide a discussion forum for the latest developments in the field of environmentally conscious strategic management of marine environments and 2 integrate expertise of ecologists biologists economists and managers from European American Canadian Russian and Israeli organizations in developing a framework for strategic management of marine ecosystems The ASI addressed the following issues Key environmental management problems in exploited marine ecosystems Measuring and monitoring of municipal industrial and agricultural effluents Global contamination of seawaters and required remedial efforts Supply Chain Management approach for strategic coastal zones management and planning Development of environmentally friendly technologies for coastal zone development Modeling for sustainable aquaculture and Social political and economic challenges in marine ecosystem management
