Competition and Innovation in Postal Services Michael A. Crew, Paul R. Kleindorfer, 2013-06-29 Any Chairman of the British Post Office dwells in the shadow of Rowland Hill and if he were an honest man he probably from time to time while singing the praises of Rowland Hill as is his due thinks a silent thought of sympathy for his predecessor Colonel Maberly the head of the Post Office the Champion of established orthodoxy the leader of the Professionals who had to endure the irresistible force of Hill's arguments combined with his skills as a pamphleteer agitator and political propagandist My favorite passage of the book Royal Mail by Martin Daunton 1985 shows how much the Post Office of the day needed a Rowland Hill to challenge Colonel Maberly and all that he stood for I quote from a passage describing how the Colonel when he arrived at about 11 00 a m and while enjoying his breakfast listened to his private secretary reading the morning's correspondence Daunton records The Colonel still half engaged with his private correspondence would hear enough to make him keep up a rumoring commentary of disparaging grunts Pooh stuff upon my soul etc Postal and Delivery Innovation in the Digital Economy Michael A. Crew, Timothy J. Brennan, 2014-12-12 Worldwide postal and delivery economics is the subject of considerable interest The postal industry's business model is in drastic need of change Notably the European Commission and member states are still wrestling with the problems of implementing liberalization of entry into postal markets addressing digital competition and maintaining the universal service obligation In the United States the Postal Accountability and Enhancement Act of 2006 has perhaps exacerbated some of the problems faced by the United States Postal Service USPS Currently the USPS has serious financial problems because of difficulties it faces in making changes and the failure of the Act to address problems that have been long standing Electronic competition is severe and affects post offices POs worldwide which have been slow to address the threat This book addresses this new reality and includes discussion of how POs may attempt to reinvent themselves Parcels and packets will play a major role in developing new business models for postal operators This book is of use not only to students and researchers interested in the field but also to postal operators consulting firms utilities regulatory commissions Federal Government Departments and agencies of the European Union and other countries The Future of Mail Delivery in the United States United States. Congress. Joint Economic Committee. Subcommittee on Economic Goals and Intergovernmental Policy, 1982 Study on the Impact of Liberalisation of Inward Cross-border Mail on the Provision of the Universal Postal Service and the Options for Progressive Liberalisation European Commission, 1995 This Report presents the results of a study commissioned by DG IV of the European Commission on the impact of the liberalisation of inward cross border mail on the provision of universal postal service and the options for progressive liberalisation Liberalisation of cross border mail was one of the proposals in the Commission's Green Paper on postal services We presume in the present report that outward cross border mail will be fully liberalised and concentrate on the effects of liberalising inward mail The study has considered six countries the United Kingdom Ireland France Spain the Netherlands and Germany Introduction Progress toward Liberalization of the Postal and Delivery Sector Michael A. Crew, Paul R. Kleindorfer, 2007-05-11 The European Commission and its member states along with many others are wrestling with the problem of how to implement the scheduled liberalization of the postal sector while maintaining the universal service obligation This book addresses some of these concerns It is comprised of original essays chosen from among several dozen presented at the 13th Conference on Postal and Delivery Economics which was held in Antwerp Belgium in June 2005 Research Abstracts ...
