Competition in International Business. Law and Policy on Restrictive Practices, 1981 Strategies to Achieve a Binding International Agreement on Regulating Cartels John Sanghyun Lee, 2016-11-24 This book addresses the lack of binding multi lateral international agreement on cartels through analysis of trials and failures It also suggests strategic approaches to overcome current standstills In addition the book contrasts international agreement on cartels with inter governmental commodity agreement which has been developed separately through international law Through this project the author puts forth that successful international law on cartels needs to reflect the interests and arguments of developing countries

Multinational Enterprises and the Law Peter Muchlinski, 2007 Multinational Enterprises and the Law presents the only comprehensive contemporary and interdisciplinary account of the various techniques used to regulate multinational enterprises MNEs at the national regional and multilateral levels In addition it considers the effects of corporate self regulation upon the development of the legal order in this area Split into four parts the book firstly deals with the conceptual basis for MNE regulation explaining the growth of MNEs their business and legal forms the relationship between them and the effects of a globalising economy and society upon the evolution of regulatory agendas in the field Part II covers the main areas of economic regulation including the limits of national and regional jurisdiction over MNE activities controls and liberalization of entry and establishment tax and company and competition law Part III introduces the social dimension of MNE regulation covering labour rights human rights and environmental issues and Part IV deals with the contribution of international law and organizations to MNE regulation and to the control of investment risks covering the main provisions found in international investment agreements and their recent interpretation by international tribunals

Regulating Cartels in Europe Christopher Harding, Julian Joshua, 2003 One of the most contentious and high profile aspects of European Community competition law and policy has been the regulation of what may be described as serious antitrust violations typically involving large and powerful corporate producers and traders operating across Europe if not also in a wider international context Such hard core cartels characteristically engage in practices such as price fixing bid rigging market sharing and limiting production in order to ensure market stability and maintain and increase profits There is little doubt now in terms of competition theory and policy at both international and national levels about the damaging effect of such trading practices on public and consumer interests and such cartels have been increasingly strongly condemned in the legal process of regulating and protecting competition Indeed a number of legal systems are now following the American lead in criminalizing such activity This may therefore be seen as the hard end of the enforcement of competition policy requiring more confrontational and aggressive methods of regulation yet also presenting considerable challenges to effective enforcement on account of the economic power sophistication and determination of the typical participants in such cartels The focus of this study is a critical evaluation of the way in which European level regulation has evolved to deal with the problem of anti competitive cartels It traces the historical development of cartel regulation in Europe comparing the pragmatic and empirical approach traditional in Europe with the more dogmatic and uncompromising American policy on cartels and asks whether a fully fledged criminal proceeding with its attendant level of legal safeguards is the most appropriate approach to legal regulation Law and policy in international business ,1976 Law and Policy in

International Business Georgetown University. Law Center, Law and Policy in International Business Association, 1992

International Business Transactions Parker School of Foreign and Comparative Law, 1989 Political Science Quarterly Columbia University. Bath, 2009 This book is a successor to Robin Burnett s Law of International Business Transactions It provides an up to date analysis of the legal environment for international trade and covers the changes made to payment and letters of credit by reason of the adoption of the UCP 600 which became effective in 2007 and other means of payment which are currently used the provisions and possible adoption of the UNCITRAL Draft Convention on the Carriage of Goods Wholly or Partly by Sea recent developments in the law relating to international sale of goods the question of international arbitration and other means of dispute resolution and the strategies and issues of international operations while incorporating and building on the comprehensive information and material in the previous book It will assist practitioners and students in their understanding of the legal and practical aspects of international and overseas trade and operations The Global Trading System: 'New issues for the WTO Kym Anderson, Bernard M. Hoekman, 2002 International Contracts and National Economic

Regulation: Dispute Resolution Through International Commercial Arbitration Mahmood Bagheri, 2000-12-06 The growth of national economic regulation and the process of globalisation increasingly expose international transactions to an array of regulations from different jurisdictions These developments often contribute to widespread international contractual failures when parties claim the incompatibility of their contractual obligations with regulatory laws The author challenges conventional means of dispute resolution and argues for an interdisciplinary approach whereby disciplines such as international economic law conflict of laws contract law and economic regulations are functionally united to resolve international and multifaceted regulatory disputes He identifies the normative foundation of contract law as an important determinant in this process contending that contract law is essentially neutral and underpinned by the concept of corrective justice while economic regulations are mainly prompted by distributive justice Applying this corrective distributive justice dichotomy to international contracts the author critically assesses major conflict of laws approaches such as proper law the Rome Convention and governmental interest analysis which could disregard either public interest or private rights The author taking these theories into account proposes an alternative two dimensional interest analysis approach He tests the viability of this approach with reference to arbitral awards and court decisions in various jurisdictions and concludes that it uniquely fits into the structure of international commercial arbitration In adopting this approach arbitrators would take into account both corrective and distributive justice and to the extent that corrective justice prevails would be able to avert a total failure of the contract     Trade Regulation, Antitrust, and Economics ,1981     Law Books in Print: Title index Glanville Publishers, Incorporated,1997     A Collection of Bibliographic and Research Resources ,1984     The UN and Transnational Corporations Kenneth R. Simmonds,1978 This reference discusses the international national governmental non governmental approaches to control direction of the activities of multinational corporations through the use of legal instruments mechanisms     Business, Government, and Society Douglas F.
