Competition in the Open Economy Richard E. Caves, Michael E. Porter, Michael Spence, 1980 With the nations of the world becoming more interdependent it is imperative to take international influences into account in understanding the organization of industry within a country This book extends the structure conduct performance framework of analysis to present a fully specified simultaneous equation model of an open economy Canada By estimating a system of equations of all the major variables the authors can identify which variables are dependent and which are independent They are thus able to assess the relative importance of such factors as seller concentration import competition retailing structure advertising expenditure research and development spending and technical and allocative efficiency in shaping the organization of industry in Canada In addition using both industry level and firm level data the authors develop methods for assessing the effect of structural variables on diversification strategies and the consequences for market performance They also study the effects of such variables on firms access to capital markets The book concludes with a discussion of the implications of the findings for government policy

Innovation and Knowledge Creation in an Open Economy John R. Baldwin, Petr Hanel, 2003-07-03 This study of innovation its intensity the sources used for knowledge creation and its impacts is based on a comprehensive survey of innovation of Canadian manufacturing firms Attention is paid to the different actors in the system who both compete with and complement one another The study investigates how innovation regimes differ across size of firm and across industries Owing to the high degree of foreign investment in Canada special attention is paid to the performance of foreign owned firms The innovation regime of Canadian innovators is compared with results of studies of other industrialized countries The picture of a typical innovator is a firm that combines internal resources and external contacts to develop a set of complementary strategies The study finds that innovating firms depend not only on R D but also on ideas and technology from various other sources both internal and external to the firm

Market Structure and Industrial Performance

Claudio R. Frischtak, Richard S. Newfarmer, John H. Dunning, 1994 Industrial Dynamics B. Carlsson, 2012-12-06 This book is based on the papers presented at a conference on New Issues in Industrial Economics held at Case Western Reserve University Cleveland Ohio June 8 10 1987 The conference was organized by the Research Program in Industrial Economics RPIE in the Department of Economics at CWRU and was sponsored by The Cleveland Foundation the Eaton Corporation and The Standard Oil Company later renamed BP America Inc Their generous support is gratefully acknowledged All of the papers have been revised in several cases extensively since their presentation at the conference One of the primary reasons for organizing the conference was the concern that Industrial Economics has become too narrowly focused in most academic programs largely being confined to Industrial Organization i e issues of public policy towards enterprise with emphasis on antitrust and regulatory policy This subject definition leaves out a number of interesting and important questions about how industries evolve over time what the role of technological change and organizational change is in that process and the associated structural changes within industries and firms The object of this book is to derme these issues and suggest a framework within which they can be analyzed I would like to thank all the conference participants for their contributions particularly my colleagues at CWRU Asim Erdilek and William S Peirce without whose encouragement and support the conference would not have taken place

Mainstreams in Industrial Organization H.W. de Jong,William G. Shepherd,2013-06-29 The present two volumes contain the essays and part of the discussions as presented at the conference on Mainstreams in Industrial Organiza tion held at the University of Amsterdam 21 23 August 1985 The thema was chosen because the field of studies commonly designated industrial organization in the Anglo Saxon countries or market theory in Continental Europe has experienced important alterations during the past decade Partly this reflects changing theoretical views inside the field in which shifts in the core concepts have occurred and different emphasis is laid on time honoured views and results Partly critical views have been voiced from outside the field As in all open scientific debate they have to be weighed and if necessary taken into account Partly also diver gent developments in thinking between the Anglo Saxon European and Japanese areas need to be considered because both the problems and the ways of approaching them still differ The variety of views theori s and results is testimony to the vitality of this field of economics variety is generated by the creative endeavours from which the chaff is being beaten out by critical discussions That is especially true for the concept of competition itself which industrial organization economists are debating intensively
