City Teachers:

Gender, Class, and the Professionalization of Russian City Teachers, 1860-1914 Christine Ruane, 2010-11-23
Christine Ruane examines the issues of gender and class in the teaching profession of late imperial Russia at a time when the vocation was becoming increasingly feminized in a zealously patriarchal society. Teaching was the first profession open to women in the 1870s and by the end of the century almost half of all Russian teachers were female. Yet the notion that mothers had a natural affinity for teaching was paradoxically matched by formal and informal bans against married women in the classroom. Ruane reveals not only the patriarchal rationale but also how women teachers viewed their public roles and worked to reverse the marriage ban. Ruane's research and insightful analysis broadens our knowledge of an emerging professional class especially newly educated and emancipated women during Russia's transition to a more modern society.

City Kids, City Schools William Ayers, Gloria Ladson-Billings, Gregory Michie, 2008-08-12
Of the approximately 50 million public school students in the United States more than half are in urban schools. A contemporary companion to City Kids, City Teachers Reports from the Front Row, this new and timely collection has been compiled by four of the country's most prominent urban educators. Contributors including Sandra Cisneros, Jonathan Kozol, Sapphire, and Patricia J. Williams provide some of the best writing on life in city schools and neighborhoods. Young people and practicing teachers, poets and scholars, social critics and journalists offer unique takes on topics ranging from culturally relevant teaching and scripted curricula to the criminalization of youth, gentrification, and the inequities of school funding. In the words of Sonia Nieto, City Kids, City Schools challenges the conventional wisdom of what it means to teach in urban schools. Annual Reports of the War Department United States.
