Civilization, Its Cause and Cure Edward Carpenter, Haldeman-Julius Company, 1945 Civilization Edward Carpenter, 1800 Civilisation, Its Cause and Cure Edward Carpenter, 1903 Civilisation: Its Cause and Cure Edward Carpenter, 2015-12-22 This volume originally published in 1889 with this edition published in 1912 contains Carpenter's famous essays on civilisation and his theory that it is a disease of mankind that must be cured. Papers included in this collection discuss the rampant ill health suffered by society as well as criticisms of modern science to support this theory whilst also analysing what the future holds for science ideas of morality and traditions and customs. This title will be of interest to students of sociology. Civilisation Edward Carpenter, 2014-02-15 In looking over this volume first published in 1889 with a view to a final Edition I am glad to note that after all there is not much in it requiring alteration. Considering that the original issue took place more than 30 years ago I had thought that the great changes in scientific and philosophic thought which have taken place during that period would probably have rendered out of date a good deal of the book. As a matter of fact the first paper that on Civilisation was given as a lecture before the Fabian Society in 1888 and I shall not easily forget the furious attacks which were made upon it on that occasion. The book published as a whole in 1889 came in for a very similar reception from the press critics. They slated it to the top of their bent except in those not unfrequent cases when they ignored it as almost beneath notice. The whole trend of the thought of the time was against its conclusions and it is perhaps worth while to recall these facts in order to measure how far we have travelled in these 30 years. For to day I think we may say these conclusions are generally admitted as correct and the views which seemed so hazarded and precarious at the earlier date are now fairly accepted and established. Civilisation Edward Carpenter (Social Reformer.), 1906
